SHIP OWNERS URGE U. S. TO SELL OR SCRAP TRADE FLEET

Government Can't Build Up
Merchant Marine in Foreign Trade and Private Operators Need Aid or Law Changes to Do So, Association Contends.

SALE 'WITHOUT ANY RESTRICTION' FAVORED

Organization Proposes That Board Retire From Business, Sell Good Vessels to American Citizens and Destroy Others.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 26.—A recommendation that the Shipping Board retire from business, scrap all inferior vessels and sell its remaining tonnage to American citizens "without any restrictions" was the basis of a program submitted today by a committee of the American Ship Owners' Association.

The association further recommended that all vessels not sold after a reasonable lapse of time should be scrapped and went on record as being of the opinion that "an American merchant marine in foreign trade can not be built up through Government operation."

The association's committee, which conferred today with board officers, is the first of three similar representative bodies invited to present suggestions regarding a new policy for the board. The other two committees are to appear later this week. The views of the steamship owners' association were presented in the form of a letter signed by President Albert G. Smith.

Letter Outlining Views.
Smith's letter follows:

"Referring to the questions propounded by the Shipping Board to the American Steamship Owners' Association, I beg to advise you that it is impossible for the association, on a week's notice, to answer the questions in detail, or to formulate any comprehensive plan with respect to the disposition of Shipping Board vessels, which, however, is but one of the many problems involved."

"The failure to provide national aid places a more serious aspect upon the entire situation with respect to American shipping in foreign trade and makes the problem one which can be solved, if at all, only after a more extended investigation."

"The association, however, regards the following procedure as fundamental:

"1. The Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation should retire from the business of operating ships and place the operations in the hands of private owners."

"2. The Shipping Board should immediately scrap such vessels as are inferior in design, equipment or condition."

"3. The Shipping Board should offer its remaining vessels for sale to American citizenship without any restriction and without any discrimination between buyers."

"4. After the lapse of a reasonable time all of the vessels not sold under the foregoing plan and having no immediate prospective sale value should be scrapped."

"Without National Aid."

"5. There are a few freight and passenger and mail service vessels maintained by the Shipping Board the continuance of which may be regarded as essential to national interests. If the Shipping Board is unable to find buyers for the vessels in such services, they should be placed in the hands of private ownership under an operating arrangement until buyers can be found, or developed, or the impossibility of profitable operation be definitely established."

"The association regards as detrimental to the national interest that an American merchant marine in foreign trade cannot be built up through Government operation."

Without national aid or a radical revision of existing laws, a privately owned merchant marine cannot be maintained, let alone created or developed. Competition, or the men-

WILSON ASKS COLORADO GOVERNOR TO APPOINT DEMOCRAT TO SENATE

By the Associated Press.
DENVER, Colo., March 26.—WOODROW WILSON, former President of the United States, today asked Governor W. E. Sweet of Colorado to appoint Huston Thompson, Democrat, to a seat in the United States Senate to succeed Samuel D. Nicholson, Republican, who died Saturday night. Thompson now is a member of the Federal Trade Commission.

Gov. Sweet is a Democrat. "I trust you will not think it an unwarranted liberty if I express the hope that you will select my friend, Huston Thompson for the vacant seat in the Senate."

Thompson is a graduate of Princeton and was one of the founders of the first Woodrow Wilson-for-President club in Colorado. At the last Democratic national convention at San Francisco he was credited with being one of President Wilson's personal representatives. He was an ardent supporter of William J. McAdoo's candidacy for the presidential nomination at San Francisco.

SADDENED BY WIFE'S DEATH, MAN ENDS LIFE

Carl A. Arbeiter Shoots Self in Printing Plant of Which He Was Half Owner.

Carl A. Arbeiter, 42 years old, of 4030 A Greer avenue, secretary-treasurer of the Skinski-Arbeiter Printing Co., 117 Locust street, who had been missing from home and business since last Monday, was found dead at 7 a. m. today with a bullet wound behind his right ear, in a storeroom on the second floor of the printing plant.

A revolver, with one empty chamber, lay at his side and members of the police homicide squad said the case was one of suicide.

It was said at the plant that Arbeiter sometimes, after working late at night, would spend the night in an inclosure in the storeroom, in which there is a couch, and that he had presumably gone there last night. On a box near the body was an empty pint whisky bottle and in a whisky glass was a bit of the liquor. About the couch were cigar stubs.

On a desk in the office downstairs was an envelope addressed to his brother, W. B. Arbeiter, 2920 Indiana avenue, containing Arbeiter's will and a life insurance policy, but no note of explanation.

Arbeiter's wife died three and a half years ago, leaving him with two children, Carl Jr., 8, and Mildred, 15. He since had suffered periods of extreme depression, according to his brother.

He telephoned his home last Monday that he was leaving the city for a week on a business trip, but said nothing of this at the time to his business associates. He had a half-interest in the business.

GOV. HYDE WILL NOT HALT HANGING OF JAMES SEWARD

Inquiry Reveals No Reason for Clemency to Slayer of Prohibition Agent.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 26.—Gov. Hyde expects to do nothing to prevent the execution of James Seward of St. Louis, sentenced to hang at Hillsboro Wednesday for the murder of Andrew Deek at Hillsboro.

During the 60-day reprieve granted to Seward, I had two investigators working the case," said the governor today. "One was instructed to investigate the case from the standpoint of public opinion and the other was to investigate from the standpoint of law. From their reports I see nothing upon which to base clemency."

Deek, a volunteer prohibition agent, was killed in February, 1921, and Seward later confessed he had been hired for $30 to "beat up" Deek. Two others are under death sentences in connection with the murder, and a third man was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Recently members of the Spanish War Veterans and American Legion petitioned the Governor to commute Seward's sentence to life imprisonment. Seward is a veteran of the Spanish War.

SARAH BERNHARDT, FAMOUS ACTRESS, IS DEAD IN PARIS

Tragedienne, Known as World's Greatest Actress,
Succumbs to Uremic Poisoning
After Valiant Fight.

CROWDS AT HOME
THROUGHOUT DAY

Physicians Since Early in Day Had Given Up Hope
and Administered Stimulants and Opiates.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, March 26.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, famous actress, died at her home on the Boulevard Pereire at 7:59 tonight, expiring in the arms of her son, Maurice, who had just entered the room at that moment.

Despite their patient's valiant fight, the physicians early in the day had given up hope. They had described the illness as an extreme uremic condition. The actress was in her seventy-ninth year.

"I am deeply touched with the sympathetic interest of my beloved American friends," was Mme. Bernhardt's message to her friends overseas given the Associated Press at 6:45 o'clock this evening by her secretary, Mme. Norman.

Mme. Bernhardt's six physicians, in their bulletin tonight, had said there was "pronounced aggravation of general and local conditions" in the patient's case, and "extreme weakness."

Mme. Bernhardt received extreme uremic during a sudden recovery of approximate consciousness that began about 3:10 o'clock. Father Riever said she was sufficiently conscious to show, by movements of the head and otherwise, that she understood the ceremony.

Hundreds of the actress' friends were calling at the house in a steady stream and the street was sometimes crowded with the carriages and automobiles of those coming to pay their respects.

After the midday consultation of the attending physicians, Dr. Desnos said Mme. Bernhardt had been kept alive during the day by hypodermic injections.

"How Slow My Death Agony Is."

This morning, before she went to sleep under the opiate, Bernhardt exclaimed to the friends and members of the family gathered at the bedside: "How very slow my death agony is!"

Shortly after 4 o'clock Mme. Edmond Rostand, widow of the poet and playwright, arrived at the Bernhardt home. She entered the house weeping, supported by her son, Maurice.

While this scene was going on workmen were carrying from the house into loading trucks the equipment and setting for the last motion picture film made by Mme. Bernhardt in which she played the part of a paralytic.

The patient again lapsed into sleep under an opiate given after the administration of extreme uremia.

Mme. Bernhardt was so weak that she was unable even to open her eyes during the granting of extreme unction. Her son, Maurice, her granddaughter, Lymanne (Mme. Collin du Poig), and Mlle. Louise Abbe, sculptress and painter, who is known as Bernhardt's best friend, remained at the house.

Bernhardt was anxious to know yesterday whether the rosewood coffin she bought 30 years ago was still preserved, saying that she wished to be buried in it.

Joked With Son Yesterday.

As her son, deeply moved, mechanically crumpled up a scrap of paper and nervously threw it out of the window, the patient found strength to tell him jokingly to the caretaker he would be called to account "for throwing things on the street," which is contrary to a city ordinance.

A funeral procession passed the little mansion yesterday. The phalanx of horses in slow, rhythmic cadence drawing a black hearse and coaches bearing a few mourners filed by. Pale and drawn from her night's vigil, Mme. Norman, the secretary, rushed to the windows and closed them that the great artist might not hear the mournful sounds.

"It is not my funeral yet," Bernhardt said "not yet. I will live many years."

ABOLISH DIVORCES, APPEAL OF JUDGE IN STILLMAN CASE

Morshauer Also Would Make Decrees Obtained in Europe Invalid.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 26.—Complete abolition of divorce is urged by Supreme Court Justice Morshauer, who presided over the Stillman case, in an article in the April number of Columbia, official organ of the Knights of Columbus, made public today.

Declaring that he believed the abolition of divorce should be brought about by congressional legislation, he added:

"But that is a long way ahead because there are, unfortunately, so many middle-aged and elderly men—and some young ones—who for one reason or another want new wives."

"But one great practical step which should be taken immediately is the passage of legislation making decrees obtained in Paris or elsewhere in Europe invalid. It is all wrong to let rich men or women run off to Paris to get divorces. We should not allow a condition to exist which permits wealthy Americans to escape from the operation of American laws."

Justice Morshauer would have divorce cases tried in the open because he believes publicity has a wholesome effect. He would permit separations and annulments.

KIEL ASKS FOR LEAVE FOR CITY EMPLOYEES ON GOOD FRIDAY

Mayor Would Permit Them to Attend

and 3 P. M.

Mayor Kiel today issued a request to heads of city departments to relieve from duty, between noon and 3 p. m. Friday (Good Friday), "all those employees who care to attend divine service in commemoration of the death of the Savior on Calvary."

The Mayor's statement continued:

"The life of the lowly Nazarene has had more influence on the world for good than all other agencies combined, and it is but meet and proper that Christian countries should show due respect to their spiritual King."

The observance of the three-hour period beginning at noon Friday will be general in Catholic and Episcopal churches. Meetings will be held in downtown theaters and moving picture houses from 2:15 to 3 p. m.

These theaters will be the American, where the Lutheran noonday services are being held; the Capitol, Columbia, Criterion, Garrick, Lyric, Variety, Rainbow and Rivoli.

President Appears at Hotel Function

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 26.—Social rules almost as unalterable as the laws of the Medes and Persians, as enforced in Florida winter resort hotels, decree that, however warm the night, the male of the species must dress for dinner, the "boiled shirt" and a dinner suit.

The rules still stand here at St. Augustine, but are rather wobbly today, for President Harding, who is recognized as meticulous about his dress, appeared at a motion-picture exhibition Saturday night in the Hotel Ponce de Leon in a white flannel suit and white shoes.

The President went out early today to play 36 holes of golf.

PROSECUTOR HOLDS BLACKMAIL THEORY IN KEENAN CASE

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Picking up the happenings preceding the death of Dorothy Keenan, cloak maker, Acting District Attorney Pecora yesterday set about to weld them on the theory that her murder was the outcome of a blackmail plot.

Against J. Kearsley Mitchell, the wealthy Philadelphia, who left her apartment before she was chloroformed early the morning of March 15, the prosecutor had about centered on a man he believed conceived the idea of extorting a large sum of money from Mitchell under threat of exposing his relations with Miss Keenan.

Pecora's deductions were that this suspected youth, described as a day Miss Keenan's body was found by Billy Bradford, her negro maid. The maid had then summoned Mrs. Anna Keenan, the dead girl's mother. This youth, described as about 19 years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height and having dark hair, handed the empty chloroform bottle to Patrolman Sellar, who made the report of the girl's death.

The maid knew of the blackmail scheme and was thought to have been approached on it, but to have refused flatly to take any part in it. She gave Pecora valuable information regarding it. She also had seen the letter the blackmail man wanted.

Each of the defendants made a brief speech yesterday. They asserted that they had no intention toward counter revolution, either in opposing the sequestration of church treasure in failing to sign an agreement with the government with regard to the separation of the church and state, or in teaching children in the Sunday schools. Archbishop Zepliak in a calm voice and with great dignity said:

"We with indignation refuse to admit the accusation of counter-revolution. I am here before a civil court and soon, perhaps, will stand before the court of the Almighty. The only thing I have to ask is that justice be shown toward us, because we are not guilty of any one of the accusations mentioned here."

His plans, had they been carried out, would have cost $100,000,000, including a large line, it is stated, but there was no need for the whole plan after the armistice and the Government decided to lease the large line, valued at $2,500,000, entering a lease contract with Goltra in May, 1919. Later a supplemental contract was entered into, providing for an option for the sale of the boats; these contracts of lease, option and sale, it is alleged, established in Goltra property rights which the War Department wholly ignored in abrogating the contract.

It is alleged further that the Government delivered the boats to Goltra in a defective condition, making it necessary for him to spend "over $10,000 per boat" to put them in repair. Seizure of the fleet, the petition declares, would be unlawful and would deprive Goltra of his property without due process, as he had no notice or opportunity for a hearing. Death Sentence Against Prelate,

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, March 26.—Archbishop Zepliak, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Russia, and all the 14 priests on trial with him, charged with opposing the soviet government, were found guilty today. Archbishop Zepliak and Vicar General Butchavich were sentenced to death. The Central Executive Committee ordered a stay of execution of the death sentences.

SEIZURE OF GOLTRA BOATS HIGH-HANDED, FARIS SAYS

"Most Outrageous Proceeding Imaginable" if Facts as Stated in Petition for Temporary Restraining Order
Are Correct, Federal Jurist Asserts.

HEARING OF MATTER
SET FOR TOMORROW

Major Portion of Fleet of Towboats and Barges Taken on Ground They Are Badly Needed by Government
Elsewhere.

Federal Judge Faris, who issued a temporary restraining order last night forbidding the seizure by the Government of the Edward F. Goltra fleet of towboats and barges, commented in clear terms today on the Government's action in seizing the major portion of the fleet yesterday.

If the facts as stated in the petition, embodying Goltra's contract with the War Department for leasing the fleet are correct, "the action of the Government in seizing those boats," the judge said, "appears to me as the most high-handed, outrageous proceeding imaginable." He went on to say:

"I know nothing of the merits of the case. Perhaps they will be cleared up in the hearing before me tomorrow on the one hand, and why an injunction should not be granted. I noticed in the morning paper today an apparent justification of the seizure, based on an assertion by the Government that these boats were badly needed somewhere else. I cannot reconcile the action of the Government on that statement."

Lawyer Before Petition.

"Perhaps all the newspapers will take the view the morning paper has. I, however, probably am too much of a lawyer to be a good patriot. I can't help that. The legal phases of this thing so far as I have seen them appeal to me very strongly."

Judge Faris remarked that he has only a casual acquaintance with Goltra, who is Democratic national committeeman from Missouri, and who is said to be in New York at present. Goltra's attorneys went to the judge's home yesterday afternoon and presented their 16-page petition for the restraining order, which he issued at 8 p. m. The petition was filed in court this morning.

It names Secretary of War Weeks, Col. T. Q. Ashburn, chief of the Division of Inland and Coastwise Waterways of the War Department, and District Attorney Carroll as defendants. It sets out that transportation of iron ore for war munitions became a necessity during the World War, and that Goltra, at the special request of representatives of the Government, began preparations at a great cost of time and money, for establishment of plants and transportation facilities to meet this necessity.

Property Rights Claimed.

His plans, had they been carried out, would have cost $100,000,000, including a large line, it is stated, but there was no need for the whole plan after the armistice and the Government decided to lease the large line, valued at $2,500,000, entering a lease contract with Goltra in May, 1919. ## BERLIN POLICE DISPERSE MOB THREATENING FRENCHMEN

Crowd of 5000 Menaces Embassy; Government So Watchful Nationalists and Others Under Suspicion of Revolt Plans Keep Under Cover.

COMMUNISTS ADD TO GOVERNMENT'S FEARS

While Monarchists Are Plotting to Overthrow the Socialist Regime at Berlin, Radicals Are Terrorizing Some Centers.

By ARNO DOSCH FLECKROT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

BERLIN, March 26.—For the second time since the Ruhr occupation the Government broke its own order forbidding assemblies within a mile of the Reichstag when it permitted a demonstration yesterday against the Ruhr occupation to be held in the Koenigsplatz, directly in front of the Reichstag building. The overflowed into Unter den Linden strasse to the French Embassy, shouting "Down with the French!" The police did not interfere until the crowd showed signs of attacking the building. Then the demonstrators were dispersed. It was after a concert given in front of the Reichstag by chorists from the Ruhr that the crowd of about 2000 persons held the demonstration outside the French Embassy. The crowd sang "Deutschland Ueber Alles." There was no unlawful incident.

Partisan Clashes Feared

The activity of the Berlin police and the order forbidding the assembling of the Deutsche Volkische and other home guard organizations prevented any anti-republican demonstration during the day. It had been feared there would be clashes between Nationalists and Communists. Trouble was anticipated in Thuringia, where both Nationalist and Communist are organized. Police inspected trains and roads leading north from Bavaria to prevent movements of home guard. Fascist armed bands. Evidence had been given to Nationalist societies to its low, and reports indicated that even the ordinary Sunday semi-duties, common to "storm troops" of both sides were not held. Prussian Minister of the Interior Severing had forbidden the German People's Freedom party to gather but it cannot be said that the "outlet" planned by radical youth in Berlin in conjunction with Adolf Hitler's National Socialists has been definitely disrupted.

Inner Political Situation

The inner political situation strikes another disquieting angle in the meeting of the Reichstag Foreign Relations Committee, called especially today to hear Chancellor Cuno on the carpet for his foreign speeches. Socialists warned him before he went to Bavaria not to take an intransigent attitude, and while the general election of his Stuttgart speech is said to have been used to open the way for negotiations with France, in the Munich speech he repeated the phrase of no negotiation with France. The Socialists and the industrial bloc wanted him to omit this declaration.

Concern over the economic situation has been felt since Secretary of the Treasury Albert published the figures of the Government's debt to the Reichsbank, which has grown enormously since the Ruhr occupation, owing to the Ruhr occupation. The Government deficit for the fiscal year closing the end of this month is more than 7,000,000,000 marks, of which 4,000,000,000 marks represent uncovered credits. Most of this has been extended to industry as a necessary form of support. The official total credited "for defense and to meet damage on account of the 'ruhr'" is 1,000,000,000 marks.

Monarchists Planning to Overthrow Socialist Government

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch, London, March 26.—The British press from all parts of the country apparently show that the monarchists, undisturbed by arrests of leaders last week, are planning to overthrow the Socialist government. Meetings are being held in Berlin, Munich, Hannover, Breslau, Stettin and other places. "Shock troops" will be sent several times a week in full war equipment.

The nationalist outburst yesterday in front of the French Embassy building shows how poorly prepared the government and police authorities are to face serious trouble. After the crowd, following the motto, "Down with the French," had sung national hymns, several thousand young nationalists broke through the police lines to the French Embassy. Police reserves failed to bridge the mob. Then the mounted police were brought into action and the mob fled. A few arrests were made, without casualties.

Review of Life Story of Sarah Bernhardt, "The World's Greatest Actress," Whose Stage Successes Spread Over Half a Century

was described by the specialists as "failure of the kidneys to function," causing a uricemic condition in most pronounced form. "It is humiliating admission for medicine, which claimed to have reached such heights, when it must acknowledge it is unable to assist one of the ordinary functions of the body," one of the renowned specialists in attendance announced to the Associated Press correspondent after a conference of physicians.

BERNHARDT WAS IN HER 79TH YEAR; PLAYED 200 PARTS

Won the Cross of the Legion of Honor—Her American Tours Enriched Her.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt was known as "the world's greatest actress." What dissent there was to this estimate, the admirers of the "divine Sarah," as her worshippers called her, swept aside by pointing to the almost universal appeal of her emotional acting. There were others who, in a single generation, among their own people, were acclaimed as was Bernhardt. But three generations praised her, and people around the world thronged to see and enjoy her acting without understanding the French language which she invariably employed on the stage.

Life Story Almost Legendary. Her long life story is almost legendary, closely woven with a dramatic incident, off as well as on the stage. As she herself and others have told it, it is summed up here.

The record of the date of her birth was destroyed in the flames of the Commune in Paris, but the date was commonly accepted as Oct. 22, 1844. Her parents were a Dutch Jewish mother and a French official and a natural father. In her early years she was left much with relatives in Paris. At 12 she was sent to Grand Chateau, an convent, essentially, where she made her debut in a little miracle play. At that early age, as a fragile child, she displayed the fits of temper which were characteristic of her life.

A desire to become a Christian nun became a passion with her. Her mother was flayed opposed to this. A child was made the subject of a family quarrel, and she was eventually persuaded to accept the girl's case. The conservative was suggested. She should be, and was, delighted as she was secretly by the prospect of going to the theater, she stubbornly resisted the conspiracy to win her away from her passion to be a nun.

She entered the conservatory at 13. At the end of the first year she gained the first prize for tragedy. A subscription, taken up among the stage folk at the Comedie Francaise, enabled the girl to spend another year at the conservatory. She then earned the second prize for comedy.

Her debut at the Comedie Francaise came Aug. 11, 1862, in a minor part, without any marked success.

First Definite Success

Five years later she emerged from laborious obscurity with her first definite successes as Cordelia in a French translation of King Lear at the Odéon, then as Queen Victoria in Hugo's Ruy Blas, and, above all, as Zanette in Francisco Coppée's Le Passant (1869).

Then came the Franco-Prussian war. Bernhardt had already won popularity. She increased it by becoming a war nurse. She turned a Paris theater into a hospital and cared for the wounded.

She became a life member of the Comedie Francaise. It was a contract which her caprices soon led her to regret. M. Perrin, manager, and she had repeated clashes over her roles she should have. A favored rival in the same company was Mlle. Cresson, a girl Bernhardt had known when she shined in fit of pique she once fled from M. Perrin's office, decided to give up the stage and plunged into sculpture. Bernhardt, however, was not so easily finished some years later, won a place in the Salon. She returned to M. Perrin, only to break with him again. On a day set for her appearance in a matinee at the Comedie she elected to go up in a balloon at the Exhibition of 1875. It was believed she would miss her engagement. She landed just in time to believe in herself. She refused to keep her appointment with a series of recriminations about her eccentricities. She finally finished his speech by announcing that she incurred a fine of 1000 francs by going on a journey without the permission of the administration.

She was out her resignation, incurring a forfeit of 140,000, which she paid for breaking her contract. Bernhardt was furious with a series of recriminations about her eccentricities. She finally finished his speech by announcing that she incurred a fine of 1000 francs by going on a journey without the permission of the administration.

Welcomed in England

A great ovation in England, receiving a great ovation. The English people, she said later, "first among all foreign nations, welcomed me with such kindness that they made me believe in myself. She refused to appear in a theater, but on other days she came to terms with the syndicates. Breaking with the theatrical syndicate, which denied her the use of their theaters, she was compelled to come to their terms, she was compelled to appear on one of her tours in tents, convention halls and armchairs. She was never to appear in a theater, but on other days she came to terms with the syndicates.

per story with having said uncomplimentary things of the French-Canadian, she and her company was attacked by some 200 men and boys while she was driving to the station after her performance. Rotten eggs, stones, sticks and snowballs were hurled at the party, some members of which were wounded. Mrs. Bernhardt, however, was unhurt. She later received an official apology from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier, in behalf of the Canadian people. Following the incident she took out an accident policy for $100,000.

Married Handsome Greek

The great actress was a grand-mother when she married in America. Her grandchild was the little daughter of Maurice Bernhardt, the actress' natural son. Bernhardt later was married in 1887 to Jacques Bernhardt, a handsome Greek, who took a minor part in one of her plays. They parted after a year, but later the actress brought him back to her home and nursed him during a final stage of consumption.

Bernhardt's American tours each brought gross receipts approaching or above $500,000. She usually had 50 per cent or more of it so large sums. They helped to float her less successful ventures at home. In Paris at one time or another she became proprietress of half a dozen theaters, and as a manager, play wright and actress she experimented with many a place at a loss.

She made a bold experiment in playing the title role in a French production of Hamlet, which was successful, and again as a man in "L'Alceste". The Hugo and Sardou dramas, both tragedies and comedies, were her greatest successes. Many of her plays were written around her "and fitted like a glove." Her work was best where there was a wide opportunity for the display of her powerful emotions. At the height of her day the emotional acting based principally on love, hate and jealousy held the predominant place. Bernhardt was never surpassed, and never will be, her critics say, in this emotional school. She created hundreds of parts, being never content to act them as others interpreted them.

Right Leg Amputated

The injury to her knee which compelled the amputation of her right leg in 1915 was attributed to many different causes. For years before the amputation the plays in which she appeared were altered so as to hide the fact that she was unable to walk only with great difficulty. The operation was performed in Paris in February, 1915. Her reappearance on her own stage in that city elicited what was described as the greatest ovation of her career. She was hailed as the greatest actress of the world, and her name was interpreted only motionless in America for some time.

Before coming to America she made a trip to the war front in France and gave several performances for the soldiers, declaring that this was the "incomparable event of her life."

To those who saw Bernhardt throw her emotional powers into almost every manner of tragic death on the stage it became a common, if not a natural, query: "What sort of death will the great tragedienne actually meet?"

Her critics took up the discussion openly without any protest from Mme. Bernhardt. The logical thing, it was maintained, would be her real death in the midst of her tragic mockery. Some even suggested the sensation of her drinking real poison

ASSIGN INSURANCE MOSCOW 'ADVISED' OF SON TO COVER HIS BANK SHORTAGE TO FORM LEGALLY

Parents of Lonnie F. Gibbs of Kirksville, Mo., Who Killed Himself, Turn Over His Policies.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., March 26.—A formal statement was issued today by Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Gibbs, parents of Lonnie F. Gibbs, secretary of the Kirksville Trust Co., who killed himself March 18, under which they turn over to Dr. H. M. Still, president of the Citizens National Bank, the huge insurance carried by the late secretary and direct him to satisfy the creditors of the trust company out of the proceeds. The statement is as follows:

"We, the undersigned, Frank W. Gibbs and Emma Gibbs, do hereby assign and transfer to H. M. Still of Kirksville, Mo., all claims, demands and causes of action of any kind or other of us has against any insurance company that has heretofore granted insurance upon the life of Lonnie F. Gibbs, now deceased, and authorize and empower him to take such action and do such things as may be necessary to collect the same and out of the proceeds thereof, he, after the payment of necessary charges, shall pay said proceeds to the creditors of the Kirksville Trust Co. of Kirksville, Mo., and then pay the remainder to us provided, however, the amount so paid to said creditors shall not exceed the sum of $500,000.

"FRANK W. GIBBS."

No statement has yet been made by the bank examiners who are still at work on the case, but this being here that the $500,000 stipulated will be ample to care for all claims of depositors.

It is reported that Gibbs carried $100,000 in life insurance. B. P. Heiny, president of the bank, is ill and was confined to his bed at the time of Gibbs' suicide.

It is said that about 30 per cent of the insurance was payable to his parents' mostly his mother. His wife is beneficiary in the remaining policies.

Gibbs Carried $125,000 in the Missouri State Life.

At the offices of the Missouri State Life Insurance offices it was said today that Gibbs carried several policies in that company totaling $125,000, and recently had applied for $25,000 more, but the policy had not been issued.

While acting the suicide on some gala night of her winning career, she was told by her mother, Mrs. Gibbs, that she should play until death. "I shall play until death," she said, and the death I hope for is the death Sir Henry Irving died." Her English friends and admirers were stricken with apoplexy after a performance at Bradford, in 1905.

Bernhardt was the most famous for her death scenes, but it is doubtful if she was ever so completely spellbound, audience over her, as when she was playing while the actress was suffering almost unbearable agonies from her various physical ailments, of which she never was heard to complain.

Patience seemed to have been one of Bernhardt's inborn characteristics. She would spend weeks and even months trying to correct technical faults in some scene of her company, and then, if the subject failed to improve, she would explode and have nothing more to do with him, either on or off the stage—not even speaking to him under any circumstances.

Cupid's Arbitrator

She always displayed a keen interest in the heart affairs of her troupe, and delighted in holding "Cupid's court" in her private or public life. She would require aggrieved suitors and the objects of their affections to submit their differences—Bernhardt to be the final arbitrator.

The conviviality of the dinner table was one of Bernhardt's delights. She particularly enjoyed a feast at midnight, after a performance, when the members of her company were present. She drank in moderation, and seldom touched anything but champagne. She never was known to smoke.

Two of the treasures in her Paris home invariably excited the interest of visitors. One was the skull given her by Victor Hugo, on which he had written autograph verse to the actress, and the other was the coffin in which she occasionally slept. This had in mind something more than the pitfalls to which one leading her life would ordinarily be subjected.

Mitchell was loyal to her to the extent that when he was questioned about the blackmail theory he was inclined to believe she was an unwilling participant to such a scheme, if not altogether innocent of it. She had received some $10,000 in cash besides jewelry from him and lived in luxury. She had shown that she wanted him for herself. She followed him to the door when he left her that morning and kissed him and called him back after he started for the elevators and kissed him again.

How Identity Was Disclosed

Mitchell was introduced to her at the Hotel Brevoort by another young woman who knew him only as "Jack Marshall." He let Miss Keenan know who he was quite accidentally, inadvertently leaving a business letter addressed to him where she saw it. After that she telephoned to him several times at his office here at 52 Vanderbilt avenue.

Witness for Foster in Michigan Trial Tells Jury of Action of the Third Internationale.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 26.—The third internationale of Moscow advised American communists to form a legal party, Charles E. Ruthenberg, codefendant with William Z. Foster on charges of criminal syndicalism, testified today in Foster's trial.

Reading from the "Theses and Resolutions" of the third world congress of the communists' international, held at Moscow in 1921, Ruthenberg found a section which the State had not read when the document was presented in evidence for the prosecution in the case, but this he gave to the jury the communist international's explanation that the illegal, underground organization in the United States was the outgrowth of persecution.

The State made an unsuccessful effort today to bar Ruthenberg from the stand and expunge his testimony of last week from the record. Ruthenberg testified Foster had never been an employee of the National Communist party. The Trade Union Educational League, of which Foster is the head, is an outside organization which the communists indorse and tried to influence, the witness said.

Prosecutor Charles Gort cited Michigan decisions to support the State's claim that the testimony of a codefendant is not competent, partly Judge Charles White held the objection should have been raised before Ruthenberg began his story.

Ruthenberg, one of those arrested in the raid on the communist party convention here last August, testified that the State's case rested on a program abandoned five months prior to the arrests. He said that at the convention the proposition for abandoning the illegal organization was defeated by one vote.

Francis Morrow, K-97, a Government secret service operator, a State witness according to Frank P. Walsh, attorney for Foster, in his opening address, said Morrow worked with those who defeated the proposition to legalize the party.

about it. He remained in seclusion yesterday. His attorney, Nelson Olcott, said he was in this city. The butler at his converted garage apartment, at 26 East Thirty-sixth street, said he had gone to Philadelphia.

Mrs. Mitchell is on her way from Palm Beach in a private car with her father, E. T. Stotesbury, and her stepmother, as they stated, to join Mitchell with the least possible delay. They expect to reach Philadelphia tomorrow afternoon.

"Mr. Mitchell has agreed to stay within call," Pecora said. "If anything develops he will be questioned and regard him as a material witness."

Robbery Theory Not Abandoned

While Pecora said his plans were contingent on the action of the police, Inspector Coughlin came out with a statement that he was working on the robbery theory, which the detectives never have abandoned because of Miss Keenan's missing jewelry and the fact that the blackmailer idea has been that the man who chloroformed her took her valuables when he found he had killed her.

With the identity of Mitchell disclosed and his picture published, the detectives were able on their rounds to ask persons if they had ever seen him. One thing they sought to establish was whether he had ever been shadowed by the police.

Another point brought out was that while he was in Palm Beach Miss Keenan was in Atlantic City, and letters from him addressed to her apartment house had been fallen into another's hands.

Mental Stress Indicated

There have been some indications she resisted an extortioner for months. That she feared something untoward might happen to her was indicated in the fact she made several calls, leaving her belongings to her mother. Apparently she was under some sort of mental stress and had in mind something more than the pitfalls to which one leading her life would ordinarily be subjected.

Mitchell was loyal to her to the extent that when he was questioned about the blackmail theory he was inclined to believe she was an unwilling participant to such a scheme, if not altogether innocent of it. ## FORMER WELLESLEY STUDENT FINDS RUINS OF ROMAN BASILICA

Mrs. Helen Joannes Makes Discovery in Her Olive Garden Bordering on Sahara Desert.

By the Associated Press.
SPAIN, Tunis, March 26.—In her olive garden bordering on the Sahara desert, Mrs. Helen Joannes, a former Wellesley student, has discovered the remains of an old Roman basilica. The find is of great interest to archeologists and historians for its connection with the history of the Roman occupation of Northern Africa. With her sister, Martha, Mrs. Joannes did post-graduate work at Wellesley.

Fascinated by the discovery of the tomb of King Tutankhamen, Mrs. Joannes started excavations in the wild Arab country near Mahares. She was rewarded by unearthing a stone basilica used by the Romans in the second century. It contained mosaic floors, a drinking fountain, well-preserved altar columns and Roman crosses.

$500,000,000 TO BE SPENT ON IMPROVEMENTS IN PARIS

(Copyright, 1922.)

PARIS, March 26.—Although France is facing one of the worst financial crises of her history, Paris is to spend 7,000,000,000 francs, or nearly $500,000,000, for municipal improvements. The items include: Subway extension, $5,000,000; workmen's dwellings, $6,000,000; repairing streets and improving public gardens, $5,000,000; sewers, $2,000,000; repairs on City Hall, nearly $1,000,000; lighting, $6,000,000. In addition to the $500,000,000 total, $20,000,000 will be spent on the port of Paris.

MAN AND WIFE REPORT HOLDUP

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dobinsky of 2247 Gamble street, reported to the police they had been held up by two armed men on Gamble street, near Garrison avenue, at 11:25 p. m. Saturday night and robbed of $475.

They said they had closed their grocery and meat market at 327 North Compton avenue a short time earlier and had divided the money to avoid being robbed of all of it if they were held up. The robbers, who stopped them, however, they reported, searched both and obtained the entire amount.

Police reported that Hyman Dobinsky, the husband, the couple on March 3 told of being held up and robbed of a sum of money. In the holdup Saturday night, Dobinsky said the robbers came from behind and pulled out a gun and forced him to get out of the car and face so that he could not get a look at them while they were going through his pockets.

man of Mitchell's identity, perhaps boastfully or confidentially. This man could have gone up to her apartment and held her at gunpoint by entering the adjoining house and then through the hallway.

The nature of the business conference that Guimaraes, Miss Keenan's favorite confidant, had the afternoon before the murder is being inquired into. It was following this conference that he went with a party of men companions to the Beauvau for a late dinner.

Afternoon Mitchell and his attorney, John H. Jackson, who was known as "Mr. Wilson," also had a conference at Mitchell's home here. Then they met Miss Keenan and took her out for the evening.

Stolen Articles Found

An expensive dress and a hat listed among the articles stolen from the apartment of the model were found by detectives today at the home of Mrs. Keenan.

Detectives who discovered the garments during an interview with Mrs. Keenan said the mother at first was "surprised," but quickly said she had gathered together some of Miss Keenan's effects when she went to her apartment after Dorothy had been killed, and the last costume she wore before she met death had been among them.

In her agitation over Dorothy's death, they quoted Mrs. Keenan as saying she had forgotten to tell the police she had these much-sought garments.

Inspector Coughlin, in charge of the investigation, was keenly interested in the discovery of the stolen articles. He said the last costume she wore before she met death had been among them.

Mrs. Mitchell on Way in Private Car to John Husband

By the Associated Press.
PALM BEACH, Fla., March 26.—Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell left here early yesterday aboard a private car for Philadelphia to join her husband. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, her parents. In a statement to the Associated Press, Stotesbury declared his faith in his daughter was not shaken by her alleged connection with the Keenan girl.

Reiterating her lack of knowledge of any relationship between her husband and Mrs. Keenan, Mrs. Mitchell said: "Why we are the best of chums, my husband and I, and I know he could not have been unfaithful to me."

TWO MEN HELD AFTER AX KILLING INQUEST

Painter and Shoemaker in House Where Man Was Hacked to Death Arrested.

Frank Monahan, 38, an automobile painter, of 415A South Twenty-third street, and Daniel F. Tracy, 41, a shoemaker, were ordered held without bond by a Coroner's jury after an inquest today into the death of Theodore (Chicken) Sanders, 37, a laborer, who was slain with an ax Saturday night at his home, 410 South Twenty-third street. The jurors returned a verdict of homicide.

Sanders was hacked to death on a bed in a room near the front of the house while a brother, Archie, 40, sat reading in the kitchen, less than 20 feet away, unaware of the crime. Monahan and Tracy denied having any knowledge of the killing. Tracy stated on the witness stand: "I was paralyzed drunk." He told policemen at the Laclede Avenue Station, following his arrest yesterday, that he and Sanders, and a fourth man, whom he named, had been drinking heavily at Sanders' home Saturday night.

Body Found by Mother. Mrs. Alina Sanders, 47 years old, mother of Theodore, testified she found her son's body lying on a bed in a pool of blood, when she returned about 9 o'clock Saturday night from a picture show. A blood-stained ax was leaning against the bed, she said.

She testified that when she entered the house she saw Monahan and Tracy lying on a bed in the front room, apparently intoxicated. They departed, she said, as she went to the rear of the house. She found the body upon returning to the front of the house.

Archie Sanders, an invalid, stated Tracy came into the kitchen about 8 o'clock and got a small ax. They went back to the front room. He testified he had heard the men quarreling, but heard no blows struck, nor any outcry. He did not know of the murder, he declared, until his mother ran screaming to the kitchen.

Injuries by Ax. Sanders was struck several times with the ax, deep cuts being made at the base of the skull on one side and on the forehead on the other. He died in the hospital after a few days.

MEN HELD AFTER KILLING INQUEST FROM ST. LOUIS TAKEN TO PRISON

Long Ride to Leavenworth for Terms Ranging From One to Five Years Is Made Occasion for Hilarity.

VOCAL QUARTET MANACLED TOGETHER

Comedian Provides Entertainment With Dream of "Snow Island" and Inexhaustible Dope Supply.

Seventeen drug addicts and peddlers from St. Louis were "dressed in" at the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth yesterday, to serve sentences ranging from one to five years, which were imposed by Federal Judge Faris on their pleas of guilty of violations of the Harrison anti-narcotic act two weeks ago. St. Louis "narcotic colony" at the penitentiary now numbers 56.

In marked contrast to their penitential attitudes when appearing for sentence two weeks ago were the actions of the addicts during the long ride to the penitentiary Saturday night.

All of them, prior to their arraignment, had been confined in jail for various periods, ranging from two to four months, and each knew as his turn came to Judge Faris with as great a show of sincerity as he could muster that the short confinement had effected a cure in his case and promised that if given a chance by the court he would never again touch the stuff.

Party Noisy and Hilarious.

On their way to serve longer terms in confinement, however, their talk was mostly of the time when they were at liberty at liberty to satisfy their craving for the drug. The party was noisy and hilarious, much like a carload of children bound for a picnic outing.

In the city jail, before starting the addicts had arranged for the trip. They organized a vocal quartet and on request the four singers were manacled together and permitted to occupy adjoining cells in the train. Harry ("Kid") Farmer, former pugilist, was self-appointed comedian and had made up for the trip. His head was shaved to show unusual contour of the cranium and was topped by the hairless crown of a derby hat.

Early in the trip, after feigning sleep for several minutes, Farmer "awakened" with a whoop and jumping to his feet announced he had had a dream that was a prophesy.

Dreamy "Snow Island."

"I was elected," Congress in 1934, the "Kid" declared, "and the first thing I did was put over some real legislation for you boys."

"This bill established Snow Island in the South Sea and amended the Harrison act so that all you fellows convicted of using or selling dope can be sent there by Judge Faris. In the middle of the island there was a wonderful (candy) pile nine feet high and 12 feet across at the bottom that never got smaller."

"Solutions Creek ran right past the snow pile and every man on the island had to bathe there twice a day. All needles were gold and everybody could have all they wanted. And 'Kid' Farmer was chief dispenser."

This recital was greeted by the addicts with shouts of "Oh, boy!" "Tell 'em, Kid!" and with requests by all to the speaker for places in the sun on the island when he should take charge.

Farmer's specialty, a sure-fire hit with his audience, was a number of "imitations" of Judge Faris sentencing addicts.

"Terrible Accident" Started Him.

Sam Alexander, a negro, yied with Farmer for first honors in the comedy role. He told how "a terrible accident" had started him to using narcotics. According to his version, he was a jockey and had been instructed one day to dope his mount just at the start of a race. He had been given a hyperdermic syringe filled with a powerful solution of cocaine and had been told to inject it into the horse's neck just as the barrier was spring, he said. In his excitement, he declared, just as the barrier went up he injected the drug in his own leg. "At the finish," Alexander concluded, "I was so far out ova mah horse's ears he judged announced 'Alexander won by a hair!'"

A negro news "butcher," passing through the car in which the addicts were riding, lost two bottles of soda water, his handkerchief and a ringful of keys. The guards recovered the handkerchief and keys.

BUSH ADVANCED TO CHAIRMANSHIP OF MO. PAC. BOARD

L. W. Baldwin, Vice President of the Illinois Central, Succeeds St. Louisan as President of Road.

Benjamin F. Bush, president of the Missouri Pacific system, resigned from that position at the instigation of the board of directors in New York this afternoon, and was elected chairman of the board, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Both Bush and Baldwin, who were elected to their positions in St. Louis, Mo., last Sunday.

L. W. Baldwin, vice president of the Illinois Central, was elected president of the Missouri Pacific. The resignation of Harry Brommer, a New York banker, as president of the board, was accepted before Bush was elected to that position.

Advancement for Bush.

The change is in the nature of an advancement for Bush, as the responsibilities of the chairmanship will be greatly increased. Brommer, who has been chairman of the board, was absorbed in his banking interests and recently the problems connected with the proposed consolidation of railroads, now under discussion by the Interstate Commerce Commission, have taken much of Bush's time from his work as president and have forced him to turn important matters of operation over to subordinates.

The directors have come to believe that better results would be obtained by relieving Bush entirely of operating details and leaving him free to attend to the larger interests of the Missouri Pacific, in its relations with other lines and with the Federal Government.

This change will give the chairmanship of the board a larger importance than it has had in recent years in the Missouri Pacific organization, though not greater than it has had in some roads. The advancement of B. F. Youkin, some years ago, from president of the Frisco to chairman of the board, is a similar instance.

St. Louis Interests.

In his new executive position, it was pointed out here today, Bush will have the task of working for St. Louis transportation interests, which appear to be in some danger of being subordinated to the interests of Chicago.

Tentative plans for the proposed grouping of railroads into a few consolidated systems are now in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission. These plans align the Denver, Rio Grande and Western Pacific lines with the Burlington or the Santa Fe, both essentially Chicago systems. Bush contends that they should be grouped with the Missouri Pacific, which, as a St. Louis system, is essentially a St. Louis system, its "long haul" being always via St. Louis, just as the Burlington's "long haul" is via Chicago.

If the Rio Grande and Western Pacific should fall to the Burlington or the Santa Fe, the St. Louis transportation lines might be left without a Pacific coast connection, and the city's interests would be likely to suffer accordingly.

Problem of Grouping.

Another problem of grouping, which involves a split between the interests of the Missouri Pacific and those of its rival Southwestern system, the Frisco, is presented by the International & Great Northern railroad, which extends diagonally across the state of Texas, or southwest from Longview, via Austin and San Antonio to Laredo.

The Frisco has recently acquired the line of the I. & G. N., although that line has for many years been allied with the Missouri Pacific interests. The Texas and general Southwestern railroad situation is affected importantly by this change, and it has raised the question of the I. & G. N. shall be allotted in the prospective grouping. Bush's position is that it should remain in the Missouri Pacific group.

A series of hearings in the West, on the grouping problems connected with the consolidation, has been begun by the Interstate Commerce Commission. A hearing is scheduled to be held in St. Louis April 30.

May Continue Several Years.

It is expected that the problems connected with the consolidation will continue through several years, and will require the full time of a number of the men best acquainted with railroad conditions.

Bush became president of the Missouri Pacific in 1911, was re-elected during its receivership period, and was regional director of all Southwestern lines during the period of Government control, after which he was again made president. He is 62 years old.

2 SAFES ROBBED DESPITE GLARE OF ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Receptacle in Lobby of Picture Theater at 3534 Easton Broken Open and $400 Stolen.

Cracksmen, working in the glare of electric lights installed to prevent burglary, "jimmied" two safes early today and stole $1150.

Between 3:30 and 4 a. m. burglars broke open the front door of the Washington Market, conducted by Adler Brothers at 3534-37 Olive street, rolled the safe from its regular position beneath a large electric light near the front show window to a back room 35 feet away, battered off the combination knob, pried the inner doors and carried off the cash totaling $550. The same place was robbed March 13, when a stock of groceries and meats was carried away.

600 PERSONS PAY TRIBUTE TO JOHN DREW AS GREAT ACTOR

Many Notables Present at Celebration of Player's Fiftieth Anniversary on the Stage.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Reminiscences of old New York, in the days of Augustin Daly, and the Union Square players of a half century ago were revived last night when 600 persons representing all walks of life joined in paying tribute to John Drew, as an artist, a great actor and as a man. It was the occasion of Drew's fiftieth anniversary on the stage.

Brief tributes were paid to Drew by his friends, Federal Judge Learned Hand, representing the bench; George Gould, representing the bar; actor Royal S. Copeland, the doctor; the Rev. Carl Reiland, the pulpit; Henry Miller, the artist; Augustus Thomas, the stage; James S. McHugh, the musician; and Melville E. Stone, counselor of the Associated Press, a lifelong friend of Drew and his family, the press.

At the conclusion of the speaking, distinguished actresses in costume impersonating the Greek muses, presented Drew with a gold plaque.

"This is my gala day, the culmination of my career," Drew declared, "plainly overcome by emotion from the tributes. 'It is the greatest occasion in my 50 years on the stage.'"

A member of the stage aristocracy of New York, Drew is the uncle of the present Barrymore stars and members of his family have been interwoven with theatrical chronicles for a hundred years. In his stage career Drew has been better known as "Petruchio" in the "Taming of the Shrew," his favorite role.

ALBERT CONNOR, NOTORIOUS OUTLAW, SHOT IN HOLDUP

Oklahoma Robber Said to Be Dying—His Companion Killed in Grocery Robbery.

By the Associated Press.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., March 26.—Albert Connor, notorious Oklahoma outlaw, is dying in the city jail here, with a bullet wound through his stomach, and Max Weabe, Connor's "pal" of Big Heart, Ok., is dead as a result of their attempt to hold up a Coffeyville suburban grocery store last Saturday night.

Robert Spriggs, World War veteran, proprietor of the grocery, opened fire on the two outlaws when they entered his store and commanded him to "stick 'em up." One bullet entered Weabe's back, passing through the left lung near the heart. Connor was in Oklahoma when he was arrested by the Tulsa police, and was being held in the city jail. He was shot in the holdup on Saturday night.

Many motor car thefts during the winter in Coffeyville and surrounding territory were believed to have been committed by Connor and authorities of Oklahoma and Kansas had vainly searched the canyons of the Cedar Creek hills, rendezvous of Northern Oklahoma outlaws, in the hope of capturing him.

Connor is generally accredited with being a member of the daring Al Spencer gang. Connor is about 32 years old. His wife and two small sons live in Coffeyville.

Frisco Promotions.

Promotion of several officials of the Frisco Railroad, effective April 1, was announced today from the office of President Kurn. Charles H. Morrill was appointed assistant freight traffic manager.

A series of hearings in the West, on the grouping problems connected with the consolidation, has been begun by the Interstate Commerce Commission. A hearing is scheduled to be held in St. Louis April 30.

May Continue Several Years.

It is expected that the problems connected with the consolidation will continue through several years, and will require the full time of a number of the men best acquainted with railroad conditions.

Bush became president of the Missouri Pacific in 1911, was re-elected during its receivership period, and was regional director of all Southwestern lines during the period of Government control, after which he was again made president. He is 62 years old.

SAYS MRS. HANSELL
SOUGHT AID OF KLANWitness at House of David Trial Accuses Woman of Trying to Molest Colony.

By the Associated Press.
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 24.—With the resumption of trial in Federal Court today of the case of John W. Hansell and wife against Benjamin J. Russell, leader of the House of David colony at Benton Harbor, Mich., the defense continued to call witnesses to refute charges of immorality made by the plaintiffs. The Hansells are seeking to recover $25,000 from the cult, the amount they claim covers their original investment at the colony and their losses while there.

Quinto Rosetta, formerly a member of the colony, testifying for the defense, declared that Mrs. Esther Hansell, star witness for the plaintiffs, endeavored to enlist the aid of the Ku Klux Klan in Detroit against the House of David. He accused her of endeavoring to molest the colony and to persuade him to join a conspiracy, the basis of which would be false charges of immoral relations with Benjamin Russell.

She said she would swear that Benjamin's relations with her were immoral, he said, adding that the charge was untrue and that she said that there was no danger of an arrest on a conspiracy charge, because "they'll have a hard time proving it."

Rosetta, a brother of Emil J. Rosetta, who testified for the plaintiffs last week, said he served as a watchman in the colony and left in 1927. In 1927, he testified, Esther Hansell came to his home in Cleveland and told him of a plan to molest the House of David. "Why not go in on it?" he quoted her as asking. She told him also, he said, of attending Ku Klux Klan meetings in Detroit.

She said she had to go through three sets of locked doors to get into the meeting hall, he said. "Men stood about the doors with revolvers in their belts. Esther and Jerry Hansell, her husband, were trying to organize the Klan against the House of David."

Rosetta also testified to conditions in the colony, declaring he had been well fed and clothed while a member of the cult.

Dr. Edwin R. Meng, 74, dies.
Dr. Edwin R. Meng, 74 years old, of 4143 Pershing avenue, died today at his home from hardening of arteries after an illness of only a few days. He had offices in the Metropolitan Building. He was born in Sedalia and was graduated in 1878 from the old Missouri Medical College. He has been a member of the St. Louis Medical Society for 30 years, and recently was made an honorary member. He is survived by his wife, Alice W. Meng. The funeral will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday from an undertaking chapel at 4448 Olive street.

SETTLEMENT MADE BY ALL
PIGGY-WIGGLY "SHORTS"New York Stock Exchange Clearing Corporation Makes Announcement.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The New York Stock Exchange clearing corporation announced at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon that all "shorts" caught in the Piggy-Wiggly "corner" had settled.

The New York Stock Exchange, in a formal statement, replying to charges made against it by Clarence Saunders, president of Piggy-Wiggly Stores, Inc., had said no member would be permitted to disavow contracts made before trading in Piggy-Wiggly was suspended. Under the rules, the statement set forth, delivery of stock traded in last Tuesday must be made by 2:15 p. m. today.

Piggy-Wiggly stock, purchased after trading was suspended, is eligible for delivery on Saunders' call, it was explained.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 24.—Clarence Saunders, president of the Piggy-Wiggly Stores, Inc., has notified "shorts" caught in last week's jam which resulted in the New York Stock Exchange stopping trading in Piggy-Wiggly class A stock, that he will accept delivery from them today at the hour fixed by the special rule of the stock exchange, of any number of shares they may have to cover their contracts, but that his acceptance is to be made with certain reservations.

Saunders withdrew his telegram, in which he declared that Piggy-Wiggly stock purchased from him and in "over the counter" trading since the stock was ruled from the exchange list would not be accepted in delivery because, he contended, trading in the stock after its suspension by the exchange, was against the accepted practices of the New York Stock Exchange.

PARIS, Mo., March 24.—Benjamin F. Blanton, 74 years old, publisher of the Monroe County Appeal from 1873 to four years ago, died at his home here last night from complications resulting from grip. Blanton was born in Jefferson City, Sept. 20, 1857. He learned the printers' trade at Glasgow, Mo., 72 years ago and remained active at it, or in newspaper management, for more than two-thirds of a century. He took part in the raid on Lawrence, Kan., in the border war preceding the Civil War. He established the Appeal in Monroe City and moved it to Paris in 1875. His writings, "When I Was a Boy," attracted attention. Since his retirement his sons, Jack and Edgar, have conducted the paper. Three other sons and three daughters survive. NEWPORT SOCIETY MINERWRIGHTS
LUXURIOUS AERIAL SERVICEMonoplane Passenger Schedule From
New York to Start June 29—Astor Directing Project.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 24.—Passenger air service between New York and Newport in luxurious monoplane, each of four passengers' capacity and flying at 120 miles an hour, is announced to begin June 29. "Leave New York at 2:30 p. m.; due at Newport 4 p. m." is the schedule published for the first of these flights of the New York-Newport Air Service, Inc. Thirty-first street, Vincent Astor and T. Sufferin Tailor are in charge of the underwriters, and 35 men and women of large fortunes and prominence in society pledged a sum equal to that estimated necessary for subsidizing the public service.

The underwriters are privileged in the engagement of reservations for the three leading aircraft, the Fleetwing, Girt Lark and Sea Bird, whose regular schedule calls for two flights from New York Friday afternoon and one Saturday afternoon and one from Newport Sunday evening and two Monday mornings throughout the summer.

The monoplane, all being built for this service, are of the Leaning Air type used by Vincent Astor and Harold S. Vanderbilt last summer frequently in flying between New York and Newport, and the North Shore, Grover Leaning, who will direct operations, recently made an inspection of all the passenger air lines in Europe and says he will incorporate the good features of these lines and of the United States air mail service into the Newport-New York line.

Passengers may carry small baggage—hand grip and golf bag—at a charge of 25 cents a pound. The air yachts, while not on their regular week-end trips may be chartered at a rate of 50 cents a passenger mile for flights between New York or Newport and Southampton, to Saratoga, Lake George, Lake Champlain or similar resorts in the summer. The fare between New York and Newport is $20 a passenger.

WOMEN JUMP FROM WINDOWS

Chicago Woman, 79, Suffers Broken Leg in Escaping Fire.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 24.—Her home afire, Mrs. Agnes Barber, 79 years old, jumped from a third-story window early today into a policeman's overcoat, used as an emergency life net. The coat was ripped apart but Mrs. Barber suffered only a broken leg.

Mrs. Marjorie Mitchell, another occupant of the same residence, jumped from a second-story window, alighting on a sloping porch and rolled from there on to three policemen. She was uninjured. When firemen arrived, ladders were hoisted and J. B. Mitchell, husband of Mrs. Mitchell and their 2-year-old daughter were carried to safety. The residence was virtually destroyed.

MAN HELD INNOCENT AFTER 22 YEARS IS AGAIN U. S. CITIZEN

Charner Tidwell's Pardon, Granted by Harding After Many Futile Appeals, Restores Full Rights.

MAY BE ENRICHED
BY COAL ROYALTIES

When Indian's Allotment in Oklahoma Is Exploited, Income From Production
May Yield $24,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MUSKOGEE, Okla., March 26.—
Charner Tidwell, who, as told in the Post-Dispatch last January, served 22 years in prison for a murder he did not commit, no longer is a man
without a country, but this time restoring the rights of citizenship of the former model prisoner of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary has been released by Tidwell, who since his release from prison has been living in Cherokee County, northeast of Muskogee. The pardon was signed by President Harding before his departure from Washington for Florida. It is officially the last word in Tidwell's uphill fight to establish his innocence. Three former occupants of the White House turned a deaf ear to Tidwell's pleas, but this time
the preponderance of evidence was on his side.

He was released from the Atlanta prison last year after it was established beyond all doubt that he was innocent. He made his way back to the Cherokee County hills, the only home he knew, only to find that airplanes, motor cars and hard-surfaced roads had changed his native country even as prison life had changed him. In only one respect were the passing years kind to Tid-

MAN WHO NO LONGER IS "WITHOUT A COUNTRY"

CHARNER TIDWELL.

well. Development of coal mines in Northeastern Oklahoma has progressed steadily toward land allotted to members of the Tidwell family because of their Cherokee blood. Actually, this coal development has not yet enriched the man who spent nearly a third of a long lifetime behind prison bars. But the building of a new line of railroad through the coal fields in Craig County scheduled for this year, will give the mining industry an outlet, and Tidwell's land should be exploited in the normal process of development.

Royalties May Total $24,000.
A vein of coal about 10 inches thick extends through much of Craig County, passing about midway between Vinita and Welch, towns on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad. The vein is covered by a very light overburden of soil, and the coal
is easily mined by stripping operations. When Tidwell's allotment is exploited, his royalties from coal production may amount to as much as $240 an acre, or $24,000 for the 80 acres of a Cherokee tribal allotment.

However, the question of wealth
has not interested Charner Tidwell
at any time since his release from prison. He has spent all his time endeavoring to obtain his pardon.
Now that he is again vested with the rights of citizenship, it is entirely possible he will take up his residence
on his ancestral acres and personally superintend the development of his coal lands. As for the present, he is entirely too happy to be concerned with plans for the future.
Tidwell was convicted Dec. 21, 1899, of the murder of James Brown.
The killing occurred at Brown's farm near Rabbit Trap, schoolhouse in Adair County. Judge John R. Thomas of the United States District Court sentenced Tidwell to a life term in the penitentiary, and he began the serving of his sentence early in 1900
at the Ohio State penitentiary, a contract prison. Later he was removed to the Federal penitentiary.

Always Protected Innocence.
From the very first Tidwell protested his innocence. Members of his family, particularly his mother, refused to believe him guilty. The evidence against him was entirely circumstantial and at least in part informed by neighborhood gossip connecting Tidwell's name with that of Mrs. Brown. At first Mrs. Brown was charged jointly with Tidwell with the murder of her husband, but she was acquitted.
From the evidence introduced, it appeared that Tidwell, a handsome youth of 29 years, had been employed by Brown. He was discharged
as a result of neighborhood gossip.
One afternoon a shot from ambush struck Brown in the breast as he was plowing, and his death resulted. Tidwell was seen riding a mule in the vicinity on the day of the murder,
and the prosecution showed at the trial that hoof tracks left by a mule were found in the brush near where Brown's assassin lay in hiding. Some wild flowers, of a variety affected by Tidwell as a boutonniere, were found crushed in the mud of a country
lane, according to the evidence.

Tidwell contended that the evidence was "framed." He pointed out that J. Warren Reid, author of the famous book, "Hell on the Border,"
a special prosecutor in the case.
From the witness stand the two sons
of the murdered man accused Tid-
well, and it was not until years later that Tidwell became possessed of information as to how carefully their stories had been prepared. To the jury, however, it appeared as a clear case.

A son of the murdered man got in trouble and was sent to the State penitentiary. Judge John R. Thomas, who had occupied the bench when Tidwell was convicted and who sentenced him, was killed in a riot in the Oklahoma State prison in 1911.
One of his reasons for being in the prison at the time of the outbreak was to obtain a statement from the Brown boy as to the truth of his testimony at the trial. Tidwell's

WEAPON CHARGES AGAINST 6 HOGAN GANG MEMBERS

Information Issued Against Men Arrested in Auto on Day "Jelly Roll's" Domicile Was "Shot Up."

Information charging concealed weapons were issued at the Circuit Attorney's office today against six members of the "Jelly Roll" Hogan gang, who were arrested in an automobile last Thursday, the day that Edward J. (Jelly Roll) Hogan's domicile, 2035 Cass avenue, was "shot up" by "Egan's Rats" gangsters.
After juries had acquitted Hogan
and William P. (Dinty) Colbeck, leaders of the rival gangs, following their arrest last summer when they were found with revolvers in their automobiles, the Circuit Attorney's office had quit issuing informations
in such cases, but recently Circuit Judge Grimm, in sustaining a demurrer in a concealed weapon case, quoted a State Supreme Court decision that a weapon in an automobile and accessible to the driver was prima facie evidence in a concealed weapon case.

Acts on Decision.
Acting on that decision, and on the information that the weapons taken from the automobile of the six Hogan gangsters were stacked upon the floor and within reach of the gangsters, the Circuit Attorney's office today decided to issue in the case and let a jury determine its merits.

The men named in the informations are John (Kink) Connell, recently acquitted of a charge of murder arising out of the killing of his brother-in-law, "Alibi" Charles Vance; Harry Greenberg, brother of Max Greenberg, accused by the Egan followers of having paid Hogan gunner, $10,000 to kill their leader.

When they were arrested in Hogan's automobile at Cass and Garrison avenues, the gangsters told detectives the weapons belong to Hogan and that they were "out to get the rats."

Grand Jury to Act.

leg and other injuries suffered in being knocked down Saturday night by the automobile of fleeing gang- sters following a shooting affray at Grand boulevard and St. Louis ave- nue.

Request for the investigation was made by the police after Hogan, who is a Deputy State Beverage Inspector and former member of the State Legislature, had refused to identify two members of the Egan gang as occupants of the automobile which struck the boy, although he had named them as the men with whom he had exchanged shots just before the accident occurred.

"I'll identify them with a shotgun," Hogan said.
Story Told by Hogan.
Shortly after the shooting Saturday night Hogan went to the Dayton Street Police Station, his automobile having been found smashed against a tree at the scene of the shooting. He was accompanied by one of his lieutenants, Humbert Costello.

"We were driving along Grand boulevard," he said, "when I drove Londe and Elmer Runge down up alongside of my machine in a coupe and began firing at me. I fired back with my shotgun and automatic—
two bullets from each, and I'm sure I got Londe because I saw him 'all against his steering wheel.'" Londe and Runge were arrested
yesterday and neither was wounded.
Londe's Dodge coupe, found later in a garage in the 6400 block on Easton avenue, bore no marks of bullets.
The garage man said it was turned in at 8:30 Saturday night. That was an hour after the shooting.

Hogan to Be Summoned.
The police will call the grand jury's attention to the fact that Hogan named Runge and Londe as the occupants of the coupe which ran down the Bickel boy, but later refused to identify them when they were under arrest. A summons for Hogan's appearance before the grand jury will be requested, although the police know the ethics of gangsters against testifying.

Several witnesses have told the police that it was a coupe that hit the boy, but none of them would identify Runge and Londe as the occupants.

Deaths From Elevator Fall Reach 4.
DES MOINES, Ia., March 26.—The fatalities resulting from the eight-story fall of a passenger elevator at the Randolph Hotel here Saturday were brought to four yesterday with the death of two more of the car's occupants—Harry W. Hill, Earlham, Ia., banker, and Clifford J. Perry, the negro operator. Two others, Lucille Hoskins, 19 years old, and Helen Hoskins, 24, were said to be in a critical condition. Hill's wife was killed instantly in the crash and Mrs.
Richard Hoskins, also of Earlham, died shortly after the accident.

FISK PLANS NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCE

It Would Give Great Powers to Director of Streets and Sewers.

A new traffic ordinance, to be introduced by Director of Streets and Sewers Fisk at the first meeting of the new Board of Aldermen, April 19, is intended to supersede the various ordinances now in effect and to bring the city law on the subject more nearly in conformity to the State law. It is drawn to give great powers to the Director of Streets and Sewers, subject to approval of the Mayor and to revocation by resolution of the Board of Aldermen.

The ordinance has been prepared by Roy F. Britton, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Automobile Club of Missouri, and also a member of the Traffic Committee appointed by Mayor Kiel to improve traffic regulation.
Most of the provisions are the same as in the present ordinances,
but there are some important changes. The speed provision in the new ordinance is the same as in the State law. It requires that automobiles shall be operated carefully and prudently at a rate of speed that will not endanger the property of another or the life and limb of any person, and that a speed of 25 miles an hour, maintained for a distance of 400 feet, is presumptive of excessive speed.

The Director of Streets and Sewers is empowered, without supplemental ordinances, to designate streets or parts of streets where no parking will be permitted or where parking will be limited; to exclude or restrict parking on designated streets at certain hours; to permit angle parking in designated places; to establish one-way streets; to cause lines to be marked on pavements and sidewalks
for the guidance of pedestrians and vehicles; to prohibit left turns at designated corners; to install automatic signals at corners and mark safety zones about hospitals; to regulate the speed in passing schools,
and to designate boulevard stops.

Whenever he makes a rule it must be approved by the Mayor and copies must be supplied to the Chief of Police and the Judges of the city courts. Signs giving notice of the various regulations must be posted and where there are no signs, no prosecutions are to be made.
The Board of Aldermen will have the power to revoke any traffic rule
by simple passage of a resolution.
For violation of any of the rules

MARSHAL EXONERATED IN FATAL SHOOTING

Justifiable Homicide, Coroner's Verdict in Death of Illinois Miner.

A Coroner's verdict of justifiable homicide was returned today in the case of Martin Wilson, 39 years old,
a coal miner of Christopher, Ill.,
who died yesterday afternoon at Deaconess Hospital, East St. Louis, from a bullet wound inflicted Saturday night by Night Marshal Nile K.
Dexter at Dupon, Ill., six miles south of East St. Louis.

Marshal Dexter testified he was leaving a restaurant in Dupon at 1:30
p. m., when he saw two men holding up Robert Love, train caller for the Missouri Pacific Railroad. As he approached, he said, the robbers ran, one of them firing a shot at him. He commanded them to halt,
he said, and then fired three shots,
one of the bullets striking Wilson's leg and penetrating his abdomen.
Love testified he was on his way from the restaurant to his work
when two highwaymen ordered him to put up his hands. One was searching him, he said, when Night Marshal Dexter appeared on the scene. Love said he then ran into the restaurant, and later heard several shots fired, but did not see the shooting.

Wilson, in an antemortem statement, said he was merely standing near the restaurant when Dexter ordered him to get out of town, and as he started away Dexter fired at him.

3 DIE, MANY INJURED IN APARTMENT FIRE

New York Blaze Attributed to Cigar Dropped by Intoxicated Man.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 26.—A lighted cigar, believed to have been carelessly tossed by an intoxicated man, started a fire which swept today through the seven-story Princeton Apartments in West Fifty-seventh street, occupied by theatrical and business folk, and caused the deaths of four persons and the serious injury of many others.

The dead are:
Anna Fries, an exhibition roller skater, killed in a jump from the sixth floor.
Mrs. Margaret Lee, 65 years old, and her daughter, Emily, a stenographer, burned to death in their apartment on the top floor.
Gaston Missouri, 74.
Miss Margaret Lee, an actress, daughter of Mrs. Lee, was severely burned and may not live. It was said at the hospital.

Dr. John M. Callahan jumped from a rear window on the third floor and both arms were fractured. His wife, suffering from pneumonia, was rescued by firemen. A number of firemen and police were burned
while engaged in daring rescue, and a dozen or more tenants were treated for slight burns and injuries.
Shortly after daybreak the superintendent was called to an upper hallway to eject an intoxicated man who had wandered in from the street. He was led from the building by the superintendent and disappeared.

Half an hour later two policemen
were attracted by a woman waving her arms frantically from a smoke-filled window on the top floor, and sounded an alarm.

London Traffic Breaks Record.
LONDON, March 26.—London omnibuses and underground railways
last year carried the record number of 1,172,000,000 passengers, which is 72,000,000 more than were carried in 1921. The distance covered by the omnibuses and railways was 162,- 000 miles, an increase of 7,500,
600 miles over the 1921 mileage.

DANDRUFF SOON RUINS THE HAIR

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It does no good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This should, surely, never fail.

MAN SHOT IN SALOON AT MADISON BY A STRANGER

Assaulting, Entering Place, Remarks
"There He Is Now," and Rites as Elmer Ruehl, 25 years old, of North Venice, was shot through the back and instantly killed in a saloon at Twelfth and G streets, Madison, at 10:30 o'clock last night.

He had been in the saloon for more than an hour, drinking with friends.
Two men, strangers at the saloon,
entered the front door and ordered drinks. One of them observed Ruehl and remarked, "There he is now."

Ruehl dashed for a window
and was in the act of jumping
through it when one of the two men
drew a revolver and fired at him.
Ruehl fell on the floor dead.

The slayer pocketed his revolver
and he and his companion ran from the saloon. The police have their description. Ruehl is the son of Mrs.
Rose Miller of Chicago, who formerly was a member of a band of Holy Rollers at Venice.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 25.—

alone. Poses under the leadership of United States Marshal Ward today brought in 27 of the Piutes.
Seven were in traps.

Old Posey eluded the posers, but he is thought to be without food and with the scantiest supply of ammunition. His capture is momentarily expected.

DAY'S RECESS IN HERRIN TRIAL
By the Associated Press.

MARION, Ill., March 24.—Judge Hartwell ordered a day's recess in the Herrin riots trial today because of the critical illness of the child
of one of the jurors, Edward Mohler,
a farmer, living six miles from Marion.
The child was said to be suffering from scarlet fever.

This was the second recess caused by illness during the trial, the first

Three-Foot Rise in River Forecasts.
A rise of three feet in the Mississippi River here is predicted to result from the increased stage of the Missouri River, due to the breaking of ice gorges at Sioux City, Ia. The rise will begin some time Wednesday, the Weather Bureau announces.
As the present stage of the Mississippi is about nine feet, a rise of three feet will be of no consequence. Flood

LASCELLES HEIR CHRISTENED WITH WATER FROM JORDAN

Son of Princess Mary Gives Lusty Howl and Wiggle When Sprinkled.

LONDON, March 24.—With water
brought from the River Jordan, Master George Henry Hudson Lascelles, son of Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles and first grandson of the King and Queen, was christened yesterday at the parish church at Goldsborough. As do most babies on such occasions, he cried bitterly
a good part of the time, giving one particularly lusty howl and a pronounced wiggle when the water was sprinkled on his forehead.

Six thousand persons invaded the ancient village of Goldsborough for the ceremony. The village children were given a special place of vantage inside the church yard.

The company present included
King George and Queen Mary, Prince George, their third son, and the Countess of Harewood. The Archbishop of York performed the ceremony, after which the baby was returned to Goldsborough Hall, in the park across the road,
for his daily nap.

AS QUICK AS AN EGG

Quick Quaker Oats cook as quickly as an egg. They are ready in 3 to 5 minutes. No other oat flakes cook anywhere near so quickly.

Just like regular Quaker in quality and flavor. Flaked from the finest grains only. We get but ten pounds from a bushel.

But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Ask for Quick Quaker if you want this style. Your grocer has both.

STRIKE OF ORNAMENTAL GLASS WORKERS VOTED

Motion Passed at Union Meeting to Stand by Demand for Increase to $1 an Hour.

A strike of all ornamental glass workers was ordered at a special meeting held Saturday, at which an offer of a 5-cent increase over the present sliding scale of 80 to 85 cents an hour was rejected and a motion passed to stand by the original demand for a flat rate of $1 an hour, effective as of March 15 last, for one year.

"Several of the independent companies have agreed to this rate of $1," said H. F. May, business agent of the Ornamental Glass Workers' Union No. 142. "However, today is a holiday" and our committee is out signing up companies which wish to meet our demand. Members employed by those companies which sign will go back to work tomorrow. The others will stay out for the increase."

About 150 Men Affected.
May said the Painters' District Council, with which the glass workers are affiliated, had gone on record in favor of the latter's demand. About 150 men are affected.

The dispute between hodcarriers and common building laborers about who is to handle terra cotta tile slabs was as yet unsettled, but both sides are on the job today and little difficulty in definitely solving the jurisdictional controversy is anticipated, according to E. J. McMahon, secretary of the Master Builders' Association. "This is not our affair, however," McMahon said. "We do not wish to enter the controversy except to offer any possible effort toward an amicable settlement all around."

As has been told, the dispute arose between hodcarriers and laborers on the Walbridge School building, the hodcarriers' independent union claiming they had the right to handle the slabs and the building laborers holding this work to come under their contract.

Officials in both the building trades unions and the contractors' associations expressed a belief today that the dispute would be satisfactorily settled, but were inclined not to discount the danger of the controversy spreading to all building trades should the argument take a more belligerent turn.

The independent organization, known as the General Laborers' International Protective Union of America, claims to have carried all material to bricklayers in St. Louis for the last 30 years, and proposes to continue to do so. The Building Laborers' Union, affiliated with the Building Trades Council and American Federation of Labor, says that inasmuch as tile is carried in wheelbarrows and not hoists, they have the right to the work.

The Building Trades Council, composed of delegates from virtually every such union in St. Louis, proposes to stand by its affiliated organization, Maurice J. Cassidy, secretary, said while the bricklayers, not affiliated with this council, are said to be in favor of the independent group.

Thus, as the situation is explained, if the independent group insists upon having the jurisdiction of the work, the building trades will with the exception of bricklayers, cease work; and if the building trades body gets the work, the independent body will go out and, possibly, take with it the bricklayers.

Amalgamation of the hodcarriers and common laborers has been suggested, but this, Robert Phillips, business agent for the independent group, says, will not meet with the approval of his organization. Further action in the matter is at present deferred pending the outcome of discussions today and word from the American Federation of Labor as to what the bricklayers' stand should be.

CHURCH ADVERTISEMENT RUN ON SPORTING PAGE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SEATTLE, Wash., March 26.—The ruling board of a local downtown church induced its minister to place the usual weekly advertisement of the Sunday services on the sporting page of the newspaper. The ad announced the text of the sermon as "The Game of Life." The services drew a record crowd and a goodly amount of coin. Hockey and basketball followers, baseball fans and boxing devotees filled the pews of the church and later declared they enjoyed the service and received a real message from the sermon. "The sport page gets the kind of folks I like to speak to, who are really the ones needing the message of the present-day gospel," declared Chauncey Hawkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

GROVER KILLS SECOND ROBBER

Both Men Had Tried to Hold Up Kansas City Man in His Store.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, March 26.—Law enforcement agents yesterday commended Grant McConkey, 2329 East Fourteenth street, for his presence of mind Saturday night in shooting and killing Eugene Johnson, who attempted to hold up McConkey's grocery store. McConkey, alone in his store on Jan. 28, 1920, knocked aside a revolver held by Lee Isom, a hold-up man, after Isom had fired two shots at him. Then McConkey killed Isom. McConkey killed both men with the same weapon, a .32 caliber revolver mounted on a .38 caliber frame. He said he carried the revolver when he was a cowboy in the Texas Panhandle and that there he had learned to shoot straight.

Colds are merely congestion. Muspeppermint and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break

the cold.
As effective as the messy old mus-

Just rub it on with your finger-

it enters the pores, then a cooling

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA
Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolium. An emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolium is a new medical discovery with twofold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and kills the germ.
Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles.
Creosolium contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and kill the germ. In other words, the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.
Creosolium is guaranteed satisfac-

ECONOMIC ISSUES TO BE TEST IN 1924, HARDING BELIEVES
President Thinks the Electro-rate Will Be Swayed by Employment and Living Wage Question.
TAXATION IMPORTANT,
DAUGHERTY HOLDS
Cox Says European Conference Will Be Paramount, While Bryan Sees Challenge of Special Privilege.

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
A Special Washington Correspondent
of the Post-Dispatch.
ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 26.—
Assuming that President Harding is renominated in accordance with Attorney-General Daugherty's prediction, what will be the issue? This question has been propounded in the presidential party again and again
since the political discussion of a week ago began.
Daugherty says taxation will be paramount. Former Gov. James M.
Cox, Democrat, says it will be the European economic conference and the Harding administration's failure to help American farmers and producers by supplying an export market. William Jennings Bryan thinks it will be special privilege, the policies exemplified by ship subsidy, and he adds a belief that Senator La Fol-lette's charges concerning the oil situation will play a prominent part in the campaign.
Harding's Opinion.
President Harding himself is of the opinion that the campaign will turn entirely on economic issues. He believes the electorate will be swayed
in 1924 as it has been in the past on the question of whether there is universal employment and a living wage. Rarely has it happened that an administration or a party in power has not succeeded itself when the country was enjoying a reasonable measure of prosperity—this is
Mr. Harding's theory.
It will be promptly suggested that the defeat of the Democrats in 1920
after an unexampled period of prosperity, would seem to be an exception to the political rule, but Mr.
Harding does not think so. He has often discussed the 1920 contest with his friends and he has said that if nothing else had crept into the campaign apart from the prosperity issue
the result might have been different.
He thinks the accumulated grievances growing out of the war and the issues of reconstruction were big enough to submerge the question of prosperity in 1920. "We want a change of personnel," was the outcry then.
Old-Fashioned Campaign.
What the President means, therefore, is that ordinarily when there are no extraneous issues, the dominant thought of the country is more likely to be economic than anything else. In other words, he looks for an old-fashioned kind of campaign, the sort that is reminiscent of the "sound money" slogan of 1896 or the cry of the "full dinner pail" of 1900
and 1904 and the warning against
"rainy days" which the electorate
was urged to take to heart in 1908.
Mr. Harding is all the more impressed by this line of reasoning because of the universal enthusiasm
with which the people generally seemed to greet the promised program of a return to "normalcy," which at the outset he gave as the object of his administration. This would make the 1924 issue something like this:
"Has the country returned to normality, and if it has it progressed sufficiently along the road to warrant a change or a continuance of the same leader?"
The Democrats would take up the challenge naturally by pointing to the higher level of wages in the years of the Wilson administration as compared to the incomes of the workers in the last three years. To offset this, the Harding administration would attempt to prove that there has been a drop in the cost of living.
La Follette's Course.
Both Senator La Follette of Wisconsin and Senator Ladd of North Dakota have already begun on economic questions, the one charging that the price of gasoline will rise through illegal combination of the producers and the other contending that the price of sugar is soaring unnecessarily. Secretary Hoover is alive to the dangers of excessive oil
and sugar prices and Attorney-General Daugherty is keeping a watchful eye on the probable prices of coal under the arrangements to be in effect next year between miners and operators.
It looks as if the high cost of living, which played such a prominent part in sweeping the Democrats into power in the House of Representatives in the middle of the Taft administration and which helped considerably in putting the Democratic party in power in the White House
as well as both branches of Congress
in 1912 will be in the foreground once more in 1924. The Republican orators will exhort the people "to sit steady in the boat and don't rock it," while the Democrats will endeavor to tempt the electorate by detailed reminiscence of the good old days of 1912 and 1913 under Democratic rule.

REPORT BONAR LAW WILL RETIRE
British Premier Said to Be in Ill Health.
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1923.)
LONDON, March 26.—There have been persistent reports in Unionist political circles here that Premier Bonar Law is going to retire very shortly on account of ill health. It is said the strain of the international situation has seriously affected the Irish Minister. He was forced by poor health to retire as Government
leader in the House of Commons
during the Lloyd George regime.
Should he retire there will probably be a reconstruction of the ministry to include some of the former Unionist members who went "into the wilderness with Lloyd George"
when that Government fell.

"SPRING FEVER" DAYS ARE HERE
THE reason you can hardly drag yourself
around when spring
comes is that your en-

itself to cold weather,

throws it out of balance.
But spring is the time of renewed life and vigor in Mother Earth, and should be with you. You need that best of all spring tonics, Gude's Pepto-Mangan.
Take it for a short time, and see how

Watch your throat. Health au-

a germ-infected throat. The modern method of ridding the throat of disease germs is the use of Formamint tablets. Dissolving in the mouth, they release a powerful antiseptic, disinfecting
tonic and throat membranes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LEXINGTON, Ky., March 26.—
While John Douglas, a secret service man, was waiting for him outside of the mine with warrants for his arrest for various alleged crimes,
Joe Blankenship, alias George Thompson, met a tragic death at Praisie, Ky., east of here, when a chunk of slate fell on him, hurling
him against a sharp-pointed pick,
which penetrated his body, killing him almost instantly.
Douglas had been on the man's trail for some time, tracing him
from East Liverpool, O., through various mining camps of Eastern Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia, finally locating him in a mine
at Elkhorn City, where he arrived about 20 minutes before the fatal accident.
Blankenship was under indictment
in Pike County for shooting Andrew Grayhouse about a year ago and is said to have been wanted in Ohio
on several charges.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR CHILDREN

The Arrival of Reinforcements to Assist Grant at the Battle of Shiloh Caused the Defeat of the Confederates.

THE FEDERAL GUNBOATS.

By HENDRIK VAN LOON.

Author of "The Story of Mankind."

(Copyright, 1923, by Christy Walsh, Syracuse.)

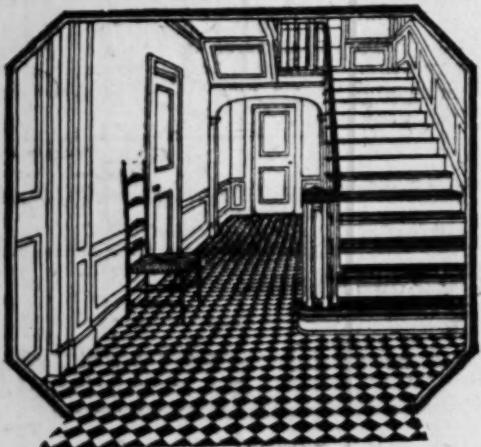

THE Southern States are divided lengthwise by the Appalachian Mountains, which run through them from north to south. One Northern army was to fight its way down to the west. Then the two armies were to join forces around the southern end of the mountain range, in the State of Georgia, and deal a final blow to the Confederacy. We shall first follow the western army.

You will remember that the Ohio River was the old boundary between the slave and the free states in the west, and it was along this river that the Union forces assembled to begin their march south. The Confederates would have liked to use the Ohio as their northern line of defense, but Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, in command of one of the Union armies of the west, spoiled this plan for them by capturing two towns, Cairo and Paducah, situated upon its banks. This forced the Confederates to draw up their line of defense a little further to the south. In January, 1862, Grant managed to cut this line, by capturing two forts near the mouths of the Cumberland and the Tennessee rivers (branch streams of the Ohio, running south) and the Confederate army fell back before him to the town of Corinth, Miss., which controlled an important railroad running east from the Mississippi River, the only direct line of communication between the Mississippi Valley and the Atlantic states. Grant also moved south along the Tennessee River, until he came to a spot called Pittsburg Landing, not far from Corinth, and just north of the railroad. Here he was attacked, on the morning of April 6, by the Confederate army, under Gen. Albert Johnston. The battle which followed is known as the Battle of Shiloh, from the name of a church in the middle of the battlefield. The fight lasted all day, and although Gen. Johnston was wounded, and died to death before a surgeon could be found, the Confederates forced the Union soldiers back to the shelter of their gunboats on the river. During the night, however, Gen. Buell, with a fresh army, came to Grant's assistance, and on the morning, after an eight-hour day of hard fighting, the Confederate army was forced to admit defeat and withdrew to Corinth. The Union army lost no time in following up its victory and soon not only Corinth, but also the important city of Memphis, on the Mississippi River, were in Northern hands.

A couple of weeks after the battle of Shiloh the city of New Orleans was captured by a fleet of Union vessels, commanded by Admiral David G. Farragut. The Mississippi River has several mouths, and it was very difficult for the blockaders to watch them all at the same time. Boat loads of soldiers and supplies from Texas were always slipping through somewhere. The country about New Orleans is so swampy that an army, with heavy artillery, would have great difficulty in marching through it, so the task of capturing the city was given to the navy. After bombarding the forts below the city for several days, Farragut succeeded in slipping past them, and on the 25th day of April the city of New Orleans fell into his hands. The Union forces now controlled all of the Mississippi River, save a short stretch of 150 miles south of Vicksburg.

VICTORY NOTE HOLDERS HAVE LOST $1,000,000 IN INTEREST

More Than $80,000,000 of Issue Called for Redemption Dec. 15 Still Outstanding.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 26.—Holders of the Victory notes which were called for redemption by the Treasury last Dec. 15, have lost an aggregate of more than $1,000,000 in interest, according to a statement by Acting Secretary Gilbert, who declared that more than $80,000,000 of those notes remain outstanding and their owners are losing interest at the rate of $10,000 a day.

Several opportunities have been given the holders of Victory notes, both those which were called Dec. 15 and those which mature May 20, to exchange their securities for fresh issues of Government paper or for cash, but the amounts turned in have been surprisingly small.

Gilbert said the condition of the treasury was such that it not only was anxious to retire these notes already called for redemption, but was ready to call for redemption, but any part of the $820,000,000 in outstanding Victory notes to mature May 20. In retiring the uncalled notes the treasury has announced it would receive them at par and adjust the interest to the date of the redemption.

These notes bear the distinguishing letters G, H, I, J, K and L, while the notes already called and on which the interest ceased Dec. 15, bear the letters A, B, C, D, E and F.

From The Gulf Coast To Northern Tables

While you are enjoying such delicacies as fresh vegetables, berries and citrus fruits, at a season when nearby gardens and fields are covered with snow and ice, do you realize how much you are indebted to the great transportation systems of the country?

The L.&N. Railroad not only carries the produce, truck, fresh fruits and vegetables, raised on the Gulf Coast, to the markets of the North and East, but it is also engaged in developing the country from whence these products come. In some sections along the Gulf Coast this agricultural development, fostered by the L.&N. has been remarkable. For instance, in Baldwin County, Alabama, near Mobile, it has been phenomenal. Fifteen years ago, not a car of anything was shipped out of the county. Last year the county produced several thousand car-loads of agricultural and horticultural commodities. These cars were loaded with Irish and sweet potatoes, cucumbers, oranges, (estimated number, 130,000 boxes,) peaches, berries, cattle, hogs, corn and hay.

Scores of other counties and parishes in the Gulf Coast territory are developing agriculturally and contributing their part to the Nation's supply of seasonable food products. Latest available figures show that during 1922, there were 2,836 car-loads of potatoes alone shipped from the Gulf Coast territory to Northern tables; and 5,100 car-loads of cucumbers, tomatoes, cabbages and other vegetables; 4,412 cars of oranges and other citrus fruits; 745 car-loads of other fruits (excluding bananas, of which there were 3,361 car-loads) were transported by this railroad. Watermelons to the extent of 6,142 car-loads were taken from Southern fields to Northern tables; and 1,054 car-loads of cattle and hogs; nearly 1,000 car-loads of peanuts and several hundred car-loads of fish and sea food complete the L.&N.'s showing in taking Southern-grown food products to Northern tables. Many other points along the Gulf Coast are developing agriculturally. This season, the shipments from that section between Pensacola and New Orleans will be approximately, 1,200 car-loads of vegetables, 900 car-loads of Satsuma oranges, 100 to 200 car-loads of watermelons and 500,000 lbs. of pecans. The L.&N. Railroad is aiding this development through its Industrial and Immigration Department. It is adding to the wealth of these states and communities and does so without immediate reward. But the L.&N. is a great public institution which, like the state itself, is beneficial to the public, serving in many ways besides the actual transportation of goods.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 24.—One bill which did not get through the Legislature was the "laundry bill," a measure designed to enable prosecution of laundries and other sellers of service in the event of price-fixing combinations, which the law are free to make with impunity. This bill died in the Senate last night, a victim of the opposition of Senator Frank Warner of St. Louis. This bill went into the hopper of the House early in the session being the names of representative Boon and Rollins of St. Louis. The bill was called up and engrossed. It would be wise if they did not display too much activity in behalf of the bill. Late in the session, after pressure had been brought, the bill was called up and engrossed. Finally Representative Manning of St. Louis took hold of it, got it passed by the House, and after some delay obtained a reference of the bill in the Senate.

Over the protest of Chairman Whitcomb the bill was sent to the Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence, who reported it out last night about the time that body quit considering bills other than appropriation measures.

Warner declined to discuss the matter when asked why he had opposed the bill.

Other Bills Passed.
Other measures which were more fortunate, and which have been passed by the Legislature since publication of the resume printed in the Post-Dispatch Thursday, include the following:

By Representatives Moody, Lawrence and Smith of Anderson County, providing that all institutions receiving deposits of money of its equivalent are banks.

By Representative Cordry of St. Louis, declaring emulsified cream and filled milk to be adulterated and forbidding their sale.

By Representatives Black of Iron County and Edwards of Dunklin making conspiracy to restrict limit bidding on state highway construction or that on public building leases or drainage ditches a crime punishable by six months in jail, two to five years in the penitentiary, or fine or $1000 and upward.

By Representative St. Clair of Howard County establishing regulations for National Guardmen.

By Representative St. Clair, writing certain exemption into the governing issuance of bonds by special road districts.

By Representative King of Cape Girardeau, fixing the qualification and compensation of road overseers.

By Representative Bulger of Jackson County taking the appointment of road overseers in that county from the County Court and giving it to the County Highway Engineer.

By Representative Donnelly, making regulations governing the issuance and sale of securities in Missouri known as the "blue sky" act.

Mrs. Smith's Measure.

By Mrs. Smith of St. Louis County, providing a stenographer for the Prosecuting Attorney of that county, who is to act also for grand juries in that county, at a salary of $2400 a year.

By Representative King, providing new regulations for the appointment of Deputy State Health Commissioners in the various counties.

By Representative Manning, authorizing the Circuit Judges of St. Louis to fix the time that each of their number shall serve as Judge of the two divisions of domestic relations.

By Representative Swiers, reducing the number of copies of the session acts printed after the close of each Legislature from 12,000 to 7,000 and the number of copies of the legislative journal from 2,000 to 1,000.

By Representative Edwards, providing for installment records of deeds of trusts.

By Representative Rollins of Boone County, enabling either defendant or his attorney to an appeal affidavit in taking case from a court to one above for review.

LORD ROBERT CECIL EXPLAINS
AIMS AND ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

"Above Everything Else, It Means a Striving Toward Peace," Says One of Earliest Champions of Plan, Now on Way to United States.

By Teased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 26.—Lord Robert Cecil, who will arrive on the Majestic Tuesday evening or Wednesday morning, on the eve of sailing for the United States was asked by the Post-Dispatch and New York World's London correspondent to make clear to the American people his own connection with the League of Nations, his own story of his activities at the inception of the League and his estimate of the accomplishment and future of the League.

By LORD ROBERT CECIL.

My interest in the League of Nations really began when I was a boy, before the conception of the League of Nations had entered anybody's head. The League to me above everything else means a striving toward peace, and my earliest political recollections have to do with the efforts to prevent war which my father, the Marquis of Salisbury, who was for long identified with British foreign policy, was constantly making.

At the 1921 assembly of the League, the world court came into existence and its Judges were chosen by the Assembly and the Council. Fortunately, Council and Assembly agreed, but elaborate rules had been laid down and are still in force, providing for the appointment of Judges, even should Council and Assembly fail to agree. The agreement on this procedure was an important step, for it was upon the knotty point of how to select the Judge that The Hague court scheme was crippled, if not wrecked.

Upper Silesian Dispute.

I need not tell again of the immensely difficult Upper Silesian dispute which the Council settled in a manner that has proved more satisfactory than most people at the time thought possible. There was Albania as well and delimitation of the frontier and the protection of this weak state against aggression was one of the greatest of the early triumphs of the League. In 1921 the League prevented war between Poland and Lithuania over the important humanitarian work was done by the convention to prevent international traffic in white slaves, and in the attempts, still in progress, effectively to suppress the drug trade.

Now I come to 1922 and to the greatest of all the League's achievements, one which alone justifies to my mind all the efforts which have been made to make the League a success.

I refer, of course, to Austria. When the British and French Prime Minister referred this question to the League Council it was the first time that the League had been called upon to settle a dispute between two states. There were even some weaker spirits friendly to the League who felt that the League was being treated unfairly in being asked to settle an insoluble question, handed to it with warnings from the great Powers that they did not propose to put up money to save Austria.

I should like to say that Lord Robert Cecil and Mr. Balfour, Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, who is one of the ablest of statesmen in Europe if not the ablest, are mainly responsible in my view, for putting the League to the test. The League has effected a psychological miracle, excepting in the atmosphere of Geneva the Austrian matter would indeed have proved as insoluble as most people thought it a year ago.

Crisis Principled Work.

My own principal work during the past year has been on the temporary mixed commission on disarmament. We have agreed in principle to a pact of guarantee which was accepted by the Assembly and referred to the temporary mixed commission for further drafting. It has been left to us whether a general pact applying to the whole world or as a beginning only a special pact applying to limited areas would be most beneficial. The general pact seems to hold the field.

We are making every effort to allay the fears of those Powers such as France, which have special reason to fear aggression. I myself believe in the principle of the neutral zone between states which fear an attack from their neighbors. This zone is to be under the control of international commissions, so as to prevent military works, strategic railways or any form of aggressive preparations for war being carried out in them.

The zones will make it much easier for the League Council, for example, which, under the guarantee treaty has to decide the difficult question of which nation is the aggressor, to determine this most difficult of all the problems before us. If the zone system is adopted the aggressor will be the side which first sends troops into them.

The temporary mixed commission meets again on June 4 and will report to the Council and to the Assembly. We have not yet attempted to fix the quota of armed forces to be allowed to those states which accept the pact of guarantee, but the principles on which such allotments will be made will be discussed by us at our next meeting.

The main idea underlying the pact, as is well known, is that the contracting Powers agree to come to the aid of any one of their number who is attacked. I may say here that it is proposed to permit nations to subscribe to the pact or guarantee of a principle of limited powers, with seven elected members.

Opposition Warns Members

By the Jefferson City Correspondent
of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 26.—The State Public Service Commission, which was the center of an 18-hour deadlock in the closing hours of the Legislature, came out of the fight with a larger appropriation than it had asked for and with more than it received for the last biennium.

The Legislature to all practical purposes came to an end at 6:30 o'clock last night, after having battled all of Saturday night and yesterday over the Public Service Commission appropriation and a few other matters mentioned with house bill No. 671, a "pickup" bill which contained odds and ends of appropriations which had been overlooked or left over from other bills.

As finally passed, this bill carried appropriation for the Public Service Commission of $125,000 and a like sum from earnings of the commission if they run that high. This $250,000, with the $125,000 from the State Treasury, gives the commission $321,000 while it had asked for only $218,000.

Fees Not "Gold Brick."

Members of the House who had fought the commission bitterly among them Representative Cordry of St. Louis and Democratic Caucus Chairman Roney of Jasper County, who made the issue of the commission's fees the subject of a heated Saturday night fight, the bill never could pass until the Public Service Commission allotment had been cut, and who accepted the report of the Conference Committee, which compromised differences between the House and Senate, appeared to be under a misapprehension when they said "accept it." For they thought the commission never would earn anything like $125,000 in fees, hence regarded the earnings gift as a "gold brick" being handed to the commission.

As a matter of fact, however, the commission likely will earn that much or more during the two years, as its attaches said last night. For during 1921 and 1922 from fees on issuance of securities alone it collected $70,000, while during the present biennium it also will have the revenue from appraisal and audits of utilities, provided the Governor signs the Maxey bill to require those companies to pay for such service, the bills for which the State previously has paid.

Final Action a Surprise.

That the commission should come through this crisis with fund provision which will enable it to retain its technical staff and the prospect of observers of the situation which had existed in this Legislature. The number who clamored for its abolition for outright abolition of the body, or at least for extensive diminution of its powers, was largely confined to the House.

The House was hostile toward an adequate appropriation for it, and increased this by amendment to $221,000, and when that information reached the House Saturday night Roney objected. Others joined him. The House declined to concur in the bill and appointed a Conference Committee. The Senate at 3 a. m. yesterday, at the conclusion of a long executive session on confirmation of the Governor's appointments, declined to appoint a conference committee and both bodies recessed until noon.

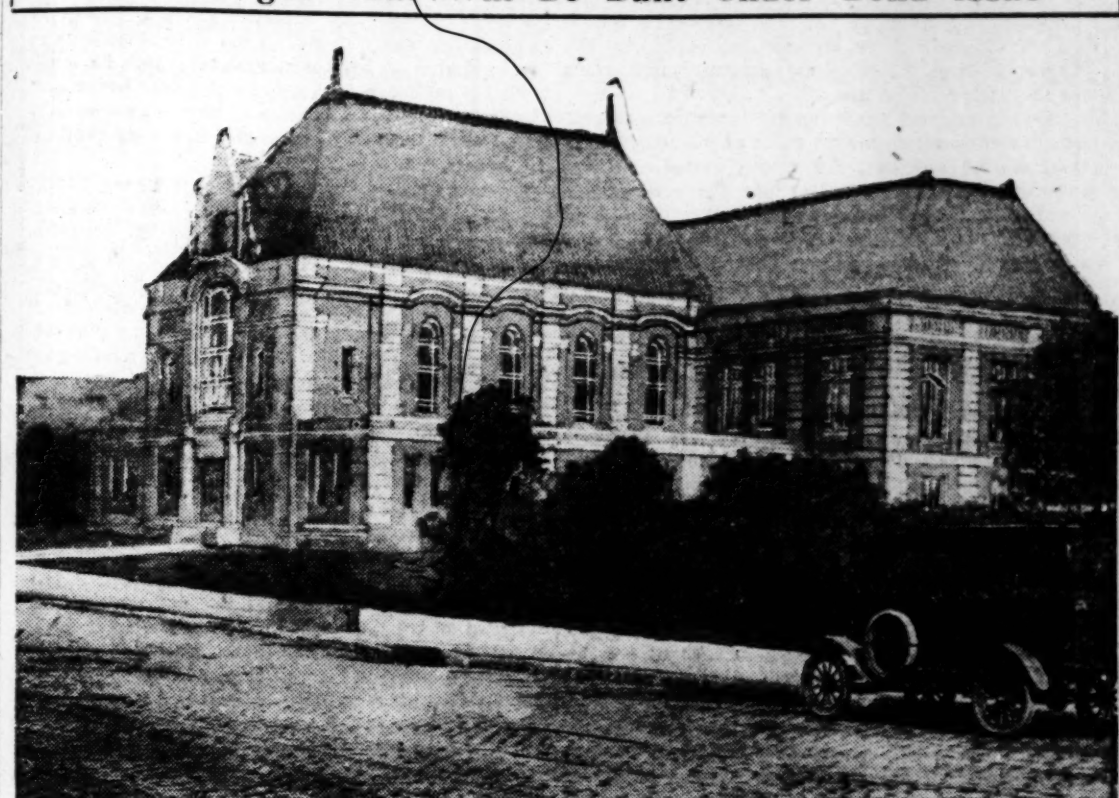

The Senate then promptly recessed for four hours and the prospect was that the membership of both branches would scatter too rapidly to permit any action, the death of the bill being freely predicted. This would have left both the Public Service Commission and Department of Finance without funds, necessitating loans from banks to enable their operation.

When the House convened, however, Chairman McGregor of the House Appropriations Committee made a conciliatory speech, and suggested that it occur in the meritorious Senate amendments and then ask for a conference committee on the others. This worked out all right.

Warning to Commission.

When the time came to pass on the bill finally, after the conference had been called, Roney made a speech in which he warned the commission that in future it pay more attention to getting low rates for the people rather than assuring a return on the capital "and water" of the companies, predicting that if it did not the next Legislature "would trim it up right if indeed it did not abolish the commission."

Fewer than 50 of the 150 members of the House were present and less than a dozen members were in the Senate when the bill was passed. As at such times, too, that the State's funds are apportioned, the votes of absent members being recorded for the bills under those conditions to give it the constitutional majority of 70 votes required for final passage. In the House 103 votes for the bill were shown, there being less than half that number present.

Two of the items rejected by the House, which the Senate had tried to put into the bill, but which it abandoned in the compromise, were to reimburse the Liberty Central Trust Co. for $114,900 and the International Bank for $217,854, which those two St. Louis banks had loaned to the State Board of Barber Examiners in 1920. The House also rejected the Senate's effort to give the State Market Bureau $4000 to buy paper for printing marketing bulletins.

Cost of Eight Contests.

Election contests involving seven seats in the Legislature were settled by the House, which accepted recommendations of the House Committee on Elections, and which ordered payment of bills totaling $2400 connected with the eight contests. One of these eight, between C. B. Corwin and William Turbett, both of Jefferson County, for the Cole County seat, had been settled early in the session, Corwin winning.

In a contest over one of the three Greene County seats, which has been held through the session by E. E. Taylor of Springfield, the committee decided the election in November last resulted in a tie between Taylor and O. E. Jennings, an officer in the Electric Light Co. Jennings, however, was declared the winner, although the session is over, the Governor is requested to call a special election to decide the tie. Both men are ordered paid for the entire time of the session.

The contest of Joseph Waldman, Democrat, against Frank Wetzel, Republican, from the Third St. Louis District was dismissed, while that of four Republicans contesting the seats of the four Democrats from the Fourth District, James L. Wren Jr., William S. Cordy, Con J. O'Brien and William Magee, also were dismissed, as was that of William P. Elmer, Republican, against W. R. Peck, Democrat, for the Dent County seat.

Flurry Over Cement Plant.

Representatives Bates of Shannon County and Hains of Saline County caused a flurry in the House Saturday night and yesterday by insisting on a provision for appropriation of $2,000,000 to enable the State Highway Commission to build a cement plant. They further urged provision for a revolving fund of $10,000,000 to be created out of earnings of the proposed plant.

The resolution was passed, then reconsidered, and finally referred to the House Conference Committee, or to a British-controlled company. It would seem that the regulations preclude the sale of concessions or leases to foreigners, although this is not specifically stated. Leases and concessions are granted only on Government land. Private land may be exploited, but only with the consent of the owner and in accordance with the restrictions above mentioned.

BRITISH STATEMENT ON OIL RIGHTS ACCEPTED

Proclamation Barring American Companies From Burma Declared to Be Spurious.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The State Department has accepted the assurance of the British Government that a proclamation alleged to have been signed in 1884 by Queen Victoria and an agreement purporting to have been made by Great Britain, which is ruling the country on the principle that all Russia is its private property and all Russians its subjects, according to a survey written by William English Walling, which will be published in the forthcoming issue of the American Federationist, the official organ of the American Federation of Labor, Walling's summary of Russian economic conditions prepared by the League of Nations.

Shipments of grain now being exported from Russia by Soviet authorities, Walling asserts, constitute only "the latest of a long series of deeds that have helped along the death by starvation of millions of Lenin and Trotsky's miserable subjects."

Though drought, which brought crop failure, and foreign and civil wars, have a share of responsibility for the misery forced upon the Russian population, Walling's summary continued, the League report found Soviet policies of confiscation and denial of incentive to individuals to be the great causes of the progressive impoverishment that is now encountered.

Hughes' Report to Senate.

In making a report to the Senate in March, 1920, in response to a resolution requesting information with regard to restrictions imposed on American citizens in prospecting, acquiring and developing petroleum lands abroad, the State Department made this statement with respect to India: "American oil companies are expressly excluded from doing business in Burma by proclamation signed by Queen Victoria, and Lord Salisbury, Secretary for India, on Sept. 24, 1884, and a blanket concession of 99 years was given the Burma Oil Co. (Limited), on Aug. 22, 1885, protecting this company from all foreign competition."

Asserting that the two documents had been cited in a report of the Bureau of Mines to the Secretary of the Interior in May, 1919, Hughes declared that "it is hardly necessary to say that when used in the manner above stated, they were believed to be genuine."

Believed They Were Correct.

The Secretary of State expressed the belief that other statements made in the department's report to the Senate with reference to restrictions on petroleum development in India were "substantially correct."

They were as follows:

"In India no prospecting license or lease can be granted otherwise than according to the rules summarized below, except with the previous sanction of the Secretary of State for India in council, or with that of the Governor-General under authority delegated to him by the Secretary of State for India in council. A certificate of approval, or a prospecting license, or a mining lease shall be granted only to a British subject, or to a British-controlled company. It would seem that the regulations preclude the sale of concessions or leases to foreigners, although this is not specifically stated. Leases and concessions are granted only on Government land. Private land may be exploited, but only with the consent of the owner and in accordance with the restrictions above mentioned."

CHILEAN EXECUTIVE
ADVOCATES DRY ACT
IN PAN-AMERICA

President Alessandri, in Opening Santiago Session, Asks Measures to Reduce Liquor Consumption.

ALSO FAVORS CUT
IN ARMS BUDGET

His Reference to Harding's Leadership in Movement Applauded—International Court Among Proposals.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Tribune, March 26.—In his address opening the fifth Pan-American conference yesterday, President Arturo Alessandri of Chile held that among the things that would be helpful to the American republics and in line with the purposes of their union were prohibition, close attention to the social welfare of their peoples, expenditures for armament reduced to their minimum, codification of international law and the establishment of an international court of justice.

The scenes at the first session,
which was held in the Hall of Honor of the Congressional Building, were brilliant. Members of the diplomatic corps of all countries represented in Chile, including the Mexican Minister, church dignitaries and others, were present. After the closing of the session there were military parades and a reception at the presidential palace.

The reference in President Alessandri's address to the leadership of President Harding and his move for the reduction of armament was loudly applauded, as was also his statement that the American republics had already attained many benefits from their union. While the Chilean executive urged the reduction of armaments in accordance with the need of protecting the vast internal and external interests of each country, it is generally considered that the armament question will not reach a vote at this meeting. It may be discussed and then passed on to the next conference, with a three years' truce in the interval. The subject of a league of American republics, suggested by Uruguay, probably will not be brought up unless some of the other delegations join in urging it.

Outspoken on Dry Question.

President Alessandri, launched boldly into the subject of prohibition, urging that measures be adopted tending to reduce gradually the consumption of alcoholic liquors.

"The man who is not sober," he said, "needs men for the struggle of life. Science has demonstrated that alcohol is the most destructive, arduous and obstinate enemy of hope, health and home."

It is expected that a definite movement will be launched early in the conference for the establishment of an American Court of Justice, possibly in the City of Panama. The Central American republics have reached an agreement to work as a unit for such a measure and it is believed that the other delegates favor the general idea.

Steps probably will be taken at this meeting looking to the establishment of an American archeological institute. Most of the delegates who have been approached on the subject have expressed themselves as favorable to it. It was agreed that Augustin Edwards, head of the Chilean delegation, should become the permanent chairman of the conference. Eight general committees were created, each with a membership of 18, or one delegate for each country represented at the conference. All subjects coming properly before the conference for discussion must first be agreed upon in committee before being considered by the main body.

U. S. Silent on Politics.

Chairman Fletcher of the United States delegation said after the first session: "The work before the conference has been well systematized and will be considered in due order. We hope for good results."

The United States delegates will keep their hands off any political questions coming before the conference, in accordance with the instructions which, it is believed, they received from the State Department in Washington before their departure. They were told to do what they could to promote commercial relations between the republics, the development of their natural resources, the improvement of the radio service and the standardization of everything of common application in the three Americas. Augustin Edwards urged that all discussions, whether in committee or otherwise, be open to the public and Chairman Fletcher said he saw no objection to admitting the public and newspaper men to all the meetings so far as the United States was concerned, as there was nothing to conceal.

was no foundation for the report that Great Britain intended to remove such restrictions as existed in India upon foreign participation in the development of petroleum resources in that region.

The British Government, said Hughes, "has informed the State Department that regulations governing the exploitation of oil in India and Burma are being collected for communication to the Government as this has been requested."

RUSSIA DECLARED TO BE IN GRIP
OF ARMY OF SPIES AND POLICE

Survey Drawn From League of Nations Reports Blames Communism, "Handful" for Poverty.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Russia, with its people reduced to the poverty of barbarism, is now controlled by "an army of police, spies, hangmen and the relative handful that form the communist party, which is ruling the country on the principle that all Russia is its private property and all Russians its subjects," according to a survey written by William English Walling, which will be published in the forthcoming issue of the American Federationist, the official organ of the American Federation of Labor, Walling's summary of Russian economic conditions prepared by the League of Nations.

RUSSIANS PRINT REMARKS
ON THEIR POLICIES BY HUGHES

But Make No Comment on His Statement They Must Change Before Recognition.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, March 24.—The statement by the American Secretary of State, Charles E. Hughes, several days ago, in Washington, that recognition of the Russian soviet government would not become a fact until the soviet government abandoned its present policies, is printed by the Moscow newspapers today without comment.

Unofficially it is learned that the Russian Government cherishes no expectation of immediate recognition by the United States, but feels certain "recognition will come sooner or later from an economic, if no other, standpoint."

Denby Asserts His Powers

Says Comptroller Has No Right to Issue Orders to Navy Disbursing Officers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The Navy Department has instructed its naval disbursing officer to ignore "directions" from the Comptroller General to withhold the pay of a member of the navy's establishment.

Secretary Denby, in a letter informing Comptroller General McCarl of this action, declared the "attempt" by the latter's office "to issue and enforce orders to disbursing officers" of the navy "necessarily is inconsistent with the statute which declares that the Secretary of the Navy shall be the head of the Department of the Navy."

"The practice generally established by your office of issuing orders to disbursing officers of the Naval establishment," said Denby's letter, "can only result in confusion and should be discontinued."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLAT-FORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight
for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belonging to any party, always opposing privileged classes and public plun-ders, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Trolley Observations.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
BEING a daily patron of the U. R. I have read with much interest the daily Trolleygrams which made their initial appearance about one week ago.
After reading these daily Trolleygrams
very carefully, about the only information I can get is that the U. R. is trying to bid the public into believing they are operating at absolute cost. This condition may or may not exist, but the general public fully realizes that as long as the street-car fare in St. Louis is Now that the fare reduction is practically a dead issue, it would be interesting to have the U. R. pass out a few facts regarding a street-car fare. I feel that the public at large are far more interested in service than the expenditure of the U. R.
I would like to have Editor Brumby of the Trolleygrams explain why I have to wait 10 minutes for a Grand avenue
street car at Grand and Magnolia avenues in the morning, and when one finally does arrive it is a trailer whose motor-man's number is "7192" and he passes
up this stop every morning for no reason
at all, as his car is not crowded, and it only causes the working people at that corner to be delayed an additional 10 minutes, which is quite an item to everyone who has a specific time to be at work.

Friday evening of last week I waited fully 20 minutes for the Natural Bridge
car. Finally three cars came in a row, the first being crowded, the second and third practically empty. The motor-man had enough sense to stop the car for me and several other patrons, but the conductor refused to open the door and also passed a car at Grand and Magnolia
to the people waiting on the corner.

A WORKING G.L.

In fairness, the Post-Dispatch presents the following reply of the United Railways to the foregoing complaint:
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
FIRST. About northbound service from Grand and Magnolia, to which I presume the lady refers: There are two trains with trailers and nine single cars (a total of 11) scheduled to pass Magnolia northbound during the 20 minutes from 8:05 a. m. to 8:24 a. m.
The train on which motorman 7192 runs is due there at 8:12.9. It is impossible for the statement "He passes up this stop every morning for no reason" must be a mistake; but I had the superintendent of that division check this for several mornings, and during that time he has found no case of it. Nevertheless 7192 has been warned about this. If during the 20 minutes referred to (10 minutes each way) a car is not scheduled there is on any morning a space of over three minutes, that is due to some accident or blockade.

Second. As to waiting "fully 20 minutes" Friday of last week for a Natural Bridge car: Neither definite time nor direction is shown. On checking the service of the entire evening we find no delay southbound, but one space northbound on the Natural Bridge line of eight minutes due to a woman falling in the street after having left the car and the conductor having stopped the car to go back to find out if she had been injured. The following car, unfortunately, had become crippled and had to be turned in in charge of the supervisor.
The conductor charged with "sarcastic
smiles" claims he called that information to people waiting. Another car was immediately behind. I admit, however, that a delay of eight minutes may seem
"fully 20 minutes" to a person hurrying home. I assure the lady we will do everything we can to render the service desired.
ALBERT T. PERKINS,
Manager for the Receiver.

Scaling a Dog.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
As I passed the 4000 block on Ashland avenue last Wednesday, a woman came out of a house and poured steaming hot water on a dog that was sitting on the door mat. The dog ran into the street and howled unmercifully. I have learned since that it was necessary to shoot the dog. Is such cruelty as that allowed? What is the good of the Humane Society?

I WANTA KNOW.

An Expensive Telephone.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
IN your issue of March 10, there appears a letter signed by J. A. Hillman, asking why telephone rates should not be reduced, and stating that he pays $13
a month for a phone that he uses about five times a day. Assuming this to be true, it simply proves to me that Mr.
Hillman is a very imprudent man, and not that the telephone rates are too high. The rate of $13 per month is the maximum rate charged subscribers, many hundreds of whom are using the phone every few minutes. If Mr. Hillman uses his phone only five times a day, there is not the slightest necessity of his paying half of $13 per month. I myself have a business phone which is used very much more than five times a day and I never pay anything like $13 per month.

SUGAR INTERESTS OR PEOPLE?

The New York World aptly calls attention to the power conferred upon the President by Congress to cut the tariff on sugar as a means of checking the rise in the price of sugar.

The tariff on sugar was dictated by the beet-sugar
interests after an attempt to curtail the production of Cuban sugar had been exposed and foiled. Since Feb. 9, without reason, according to Secretary Hoover, the price of sugar has risen from 6 to 9 or 10 cents
and there is good ground for the expectation that it will rise higher. After investigating conditions Mr.
Hoover declares "there is no economic justification
for the high price of sugar."

There is no need for prolonged investigations that do not lead to action for the relief of the people from the greed of profiteers. The Tariff Commission can quickly ascertain whether or not the sugar tariff schedule of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill is equitable or not—whether it is working to maintain an American industry or to enable an American industry to oppress the people. A recommendation from the Tariff Commission to the President to exercise
the authority vested in him by Congress to reduce the tariff would supply the legal ground for presidential action.

The authority presumably was vested in the President to enable him to come to the relief of the people
if the tariff should be misused as a means of plundering the people. Unless Mr. Hoover is mistaken, the sugar tariff is being misused as a shield for unscrupulous profiteering. The situation proclaims the truth of Mr. Hoover's statement and supports the conviction that the sugar tariff is being utilized
as a means of oppression and plunder.

There could not be a better opportunity for the President to demonstrate the good faith of the Republican party in arming him with authority to change tariff duties when occasion called for change,
nor of his good faith and willingness to serve the public in exercising his authority. He has the means at hand of rebuking and checking the greed of the sugar interests in resorting to profiteering under the Republican tariff. He can use the power of his office and the special authority conferred by Congress to protect the people from ruthless profiteering.

Mr. Harding can demonstrate conclusively whether or not the tariff was intended to be the instrument of the interests to despoil the people; whether or not his special authority under the law is a sham to cover tariff spoliation, or a reality to protect the people. He can demonstrate, quickly whether he stands for the interests profiteering under Government privilege or for the people against conscienceless privilege.

Prof. Einstein announces he has made another discovery. "What it is we don't know, and never shall know and never shall understand."

WHEN BIG BUSINESS GETS BIG.

Big business of today, Henry Ford says, is of peat-stand dimensions compared with what big business will be 20 years from now. The latter will control all its raw materials, and in happy consequence, the middleman will disappear—good riddance to a parasite, remarks Henry—and prices will have come tumbling down to the consumer's ability to pay.

It is a compelling picture as splashed in the bold
Ford strokes. Possibly the dream will come true.
It is not apparent, though, how control of raw materials will enable the manufacturer to abolish the middleman. It may reduce him, numerically, but the consumer will still have to be reached. There will still have to be a connecting link between the manufacturer and the market. And that link, whatever its status, whether an independent purveyor or an employee of the manufacturer, will perform the functions of the middleman and thereby will render an essential service which will have to be paid for.

Moreover, some doubt will be entertained as to the certainty that as big business expands proportionate economies will be effected. It is tradition, established by experience, that, beyond a certain point of magnitude, efficiency ceases and inefficiency, with attendant costs, filters in.

Of course, there are no rules or regulations for genius, and, therefore, in the case of an industrial superman like Ford, traditions melt away and experience retires hat in hand from the presence of War.

THE TRICK COULDN'T BE WORKED WITHOUT THE TABLE.

its superior. But the geniuses in all lines are few.
Mr. Ford seems to be installing a best mind, counterpart of his own, in every industrial plant of the future. That's magnificent, but is it business?

LET DEAD WORDS SLEEP.

The Democratic National Committee's plan to finance the next presidential campaign with minimum contributions from the maximum number of contributors is reminiscent of the strategy of Will Hays in preparing for the 1920 battle. Mr. Hays, it will be recalled, frowned virtuously upon large donations in the beginning of his chairmanship. Later he overcame his prejudice to large, flamboyant checks and eventually achieved a breadth of view where he welcomed their voluntary appearance and even prodded
the reluctant rich.

Whether the Democratic managers will grow in liberality, as did Mr. Hays, or similarly shrink in scruples is for the future to disclose. It is with the present culpability of the Democratic committee, however, we would deal. That committee has brought back into service the worn and frazzled word "drive,"
which, it was hoped, had been laid away forever.
There is to be a "nation-wide drive," we are informed.
"To organize victory clubs," presumably in every township. Thus a tremendous body of enthusiasm, intensive and extensive, will be assembled, along with immense financial resources.

It may so turn out. It seems plausible, certainly.
But can it not be done without resurrecting "drives,"
"victory clubs" and other words and phrases of a buried argot? Cannot peace, which has its victories no less renowned than those of war, develop a terminology of its own? Anyhow, let not spectral and forgotten "drive" be brought back into the hurly-burly of politics. It has earned the rest it enjoys, and the people are enjoying the rest it has earned.

Let us try substituting sound principles and wise policies for the public welfare.

It costs $16,500,000 to build a first-class battleship, according to the British Admiralty. And when they've built it, what have they got?

GREATER FRANCE

French statesmen and economists continue to bewail the fact that the population of France has shrunk and is shrinking alarmingly. Germany, despite the loss of Alsace and Lorraine, remains 70 per cent more populous than France. The population of France, including Alsace and Lorraine, 39,402,739, is but 9 per cent of the total population of the world.
Powers, ranking with Italy, which has only about half her area.

Among several suggested remedies, including bonuses for births and penalties for barrenness, the industrialization of France is perhaps the best, it having been found that the communities supported by industries other than agriculture have the highest birth rate.

France could well afford to turn a great part of the home land into factory cities, for she has an enormous hinterland. In the way of colonies, which could supply her with all her needs in food and raw material and still have a surplus for the rest of the world. In Asia, Africa, America and Oceania, according to the World Almanac, France has colonial possessions totaling 5,119,138 square miles, more than 24
times the area of the mother country, with a population of 53,582,905 to do the work. Algeria alone, close to France, is larger than France, and under the stimulus of French scientists and agriculturists, produces wheat, barley, oats, all kinds of fruit, including the best wine grapes, in abundance. French West Africa, excluding the Sahara Desert, has an area of 1,500,000 square miles, and the French Congo nearly a million. All this land is productive and capable of being developed to a condition where its wealth
would be incalculable.

Greater France is truly imperial France. The French Republic stands almost at the head of the list
as a mighty land owner and ruler of undeveloped but real treasure regions. She is not the pitiful, stripped, ruined thing some of her advocates hold up for the world's scrutiny. She profited tremendously by the war, in spite of the devastated strip at home, and this profit should be given due weight in striking a balance between her and her opponents in the World War.

JUST A MINUTE

By U. S. Pat. Off.

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By CLARK McADAMS

Sir: Do your readers notice how interesting and up-to-date the originality of the "Dum-belle" verses; how he misquotes the question of evolution. "Creation or evolution—which of the two shall stand?" he warbles. Does he think that creation means no evolution or evolution
no creation? Are they exclusive? Remuneration?
He imagines the creative explanation the older.
Has he read no more Greek myths than he has
of, say, Socrates? Creation rests on authority?
Evolution of the kind you write of rests on Haeckel, who misquotes the past?
"Each day evolution gains a firmer hold." A firmer hold on the "fact" that there was no creation? Science, I thought, depended on observation and experiment. Do men now experiment with and observe the past?
Finally he says there can be no creation because "ex nihilo nihil fit." Why not say that there must be a Creator to whom is referred the beginning of things? There had to have been something in the beginning because "ex nihilo
nihil fit."

SONNETS FOR A NEW LOVE.
(I. Dedication.)
Light loves like lesser stars will lose their glow
And fade into the stratospheric deep
When new love, blinding with a golden sweep Comes like a comet burning in the night
And you, new face, that blurs the form of old
And you new dream that rises from dead
love's pyre
Something there is in you of mad new fire
Something that must be sung, that needs to be told.
See how I make the songs of yesterday
Ring with a wild new rhythm since you came See how my love-songs burn with whiter
flame
Since you have kindled them with warmer ray
O new love, all my heart belongs to you
I beg you now, accept this sonnet too.

IN A CHINESE GARDEN.
At dusk when evenings quiet shadows
fall my Nurse and I walk in the Garden
and listen to the murmuring voices.
She tells strange things of Butterflies and Birds and many things of which I have no understanding.
"The World," she says, "rests on a Dragon's back and with each quiver of its mighty frame
the Earth does rock and Mountains crumble into dust."
I tremble in affright; and wonder if in other worlds in which my ancestors abide, such fearful Monsters dwell.
"The Moon," she tells, "is Heaven's Sentinel who watches o'er the ways of men, and hides
her face behind the scurrying clouds in shame,
when men are cruel and women wanton."
The Fireflies, she relates, "are children of the Moon—the messengers of Love, who light the way for those whose words and sighs dare not be heard, and glances are for-bidden."
Last night a Mandarin with courtly mien profoundly bowed in passing by my gate.
Ah me, if what she told were true, I'd hold a firefly to my breast that it might see the throbbings of my longing heart.
I'd bid him fly and seek a Soldier Man who fights with Wu in old Sun-Shi.
Another would I send back to the Moon,
its Mother, and bid it plead for Her for me,
to ask the Grace of Heaven to discover and guard them all who fight in old Sun-Shi.
I listen to the Sky-lark's ringing call.
Nurse says, "My prayers are answered in its song."
Ah, me, were he but passing by my gate, I'd bid him stay—'till the 'tis late.

G. F. NEWBURGER.

PETIT JEAN.
O you know that narrow valley where the
flame
Petit Jean is flowing.
"Neath shadowing hills enfolded with a shining purple shroud?
There a lone pink bud and dogwood
white is blowing.
And a cool wind leans at noonday from the silver-breasted cloud.
Paint and clear across the highlands comes the sound of cattle lowing.
And the wild plums glow like orchards in the valley's deep between—
Wrapped in foamy lace of music sweet, clear
Petit Jean is flowing.
By the crags tall painted towers and the forest
sunt green.

PETIT JEAN.
I've longed so for you, with your
rippling, running tune:
Ah! so barren and unfruitful are the years that spread between—Once I dreamed I saw the shallop of the questing summer moon
Drift by me on your laughing, dancing waters, Petit Jean.

Do you know the sweeping perfume that the night wind wafts before From cedared slopes and flowered meads and banks of Petit Jean?
How the stars come thickly, softly crowding
out of heaven's door,
And the bull-bats dive and swoop and skim
above the water's shone?
Oh! so sweet the scent of earth is with the bright cold dew a-falling.
So sweet the sense of peace is beneath God's watcher's serene.

When through the thickening dusk of twilight
a lone whippoorwill is calling
And fancies paddle down the tides of singing
Petit Jean.
Petit Jean, my heart's been with you where your swift, clear waves were flowing.
And I've walked with memories' footsteps
In your highlands still and green—
But I'm happy now forever, for it's homeward
I am going
To dream along the sunlit shores of silver Petit Jean.
CAROLYN M. LEWIS.

FRANCE AND THE RUHR.
From the New York World.
THE allied Powers, now whittled down to two —Belgium acting in concert with France as the result of a promise of coal from the Ruhr which may or may not be forthcoming—assume their resolve "not to be outwitted" by Germany territory recently occupied on the right bank of the Rhine on German promises alone, but to leave only as Germany fulfills her reparations obligations." It means that the French Government does not intend to evacuate the second sector
until Germany has paid the remainder of the $32,000,000,000 originally demanded. It means that France intends never to evacuate. Germany obviously cannot pay the indemnity as it stands.
By blocking a revision of reparations and by continuing to hold the Ruhr and the right bank of the Rhine, the French Government is making the payment of reparations impossible and completely defeating the chances of a settlement. A settlement would be obtainable only through a revision of the reparations figures, and no fair or workable adjustment is likely to be reached while the Ruhr is held as hostage. M. Poincare is not looking for an adjustment. He is looking for another unconditional surrender, leaving all questions of fact and economics on the unshakable shoulders
of those who come after him.

TOO MUCH OVERHEAD.
The trouble with me was the
I was too literal-minded. That's not true. You are entirely mistaken in assuming that I can't understand any body's getting away with the smallest deviation from fact. My only contention is that when a man is lying he ought not to be too dogmatic. The person who says "I think" or "Perhaps" or "Approximately" never disturbs me in the least. A sure none of those words He is always sure and generally as perceptive.

NEW YORK.
"My attention has been called,"
writes B. "to an article by you in a morning newspaper in which I am called 'a vulgar fellow.' 'A troublemaker,' 'an unmitigated scoundrel,'
'a professional agitator' and 'a liar.'
Some day you will go too far. Already I feel that I am entitled to a retraction and that this should receive at least as much publicity as the original libel. The trouble with you is that you are laboring under a ridiculous delusion in regard to the character of my friend A. You assume that I am the instigator of all the arguments which culminate
in a wagger and a letter to the press."
I goad him into these disputes.
"Ye gods! Have you ever seen A? O course not. Even you could hardly be guilty of such folly if you had much as passed 10 minutes in the company of this person. 'What manner' was what you said. Let me recall you with a little anecdote which came to me from Mrs. A, one of God's own noblemen, if not ever lived. A went to California month ago for a vacation, leaving Mrs. A (her name is Lucy) to keep his New York apartment open. On the evening he reached Los Angeles
she was sewing in the drawing room
and suddenly she looked up at me and said, with a smile, 'I'm afraid
I must be getting deaf. I can't seem to hear a word A says.' You understand, he was in Los Angeles, and she was in New York when she made this remark. The point she intended to convey was that A roars when he talks."

"His favorite expressions are, 'Well,
ought to know,' and 'Put up or shut up.' He seems to confuse 'Well,' ought to know' with 'I do know' and uses them interchangeably. A seems to have a good deal of trouble in getting along without the adverbially 'personally.' I told him personally he is fond of saying, or 'That's something with which I am personally familiar.'"

"A friend of mine once told me that the trouble with me was the

THE MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION.
A GREATER MISSOURI.
From the St. Joseph News-Press.
A MEETING will be held in Jefferson City
April 6-7 to organize the Missouri association "for a greater Missouri." It is announced that a splendid response has come from all over the State. The plan is for one organization that will be formed when delegates from chambers of commerce, farm organizations, one representative publisher from each county, and one delegate from other industrial and commercial organizations that have been invited, meet in Jefferson City. Such an association should determine all of the factors for good in the State and be a helpful agency for coming legislation.
As it could furnish a medium for securing an expression from the entire State on any subject. The trouble with Missouri is that the people do not realize its greatness and act upon that realization. They need punching up on this important fact. They need to reflect upon what is the matter with Missouri. Indeed, there is any natural defect. There isn't a State in the Union that equals Missouri in natural resources.
The shortcomings it has are man made. Its progress is impeded by politicians and by the complacency of its people. The Missouri asso-expression of the people. Contemplating the pos-masses who need guidance, by such an organization as the Greater Missouri Association, one welcomes the approaching day when it shall be formed.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS.
GOV. COX to Massachusetts Legislature.
I WOULD that I could recommend the immediate adoption of a general system of old-age pensions. I cannot do so, for I remember that Massachusetts is but one of 48 states, and the burden of taxation to sustain such a system would crush our people as they tried to compete for progress with those of other states. I suppose that the Governor be given authority to appoint an unpaid commission of five to hold office for 10 years; that the commission be given an appropriation of $100,000 to start a fund for old-age pensions, the fund not to be available in pensions until 10 years from the date of the appointment of the commission; that the public be asked to subscribe to this fund, and a general law be enacted to investigate the general subject and to make recommendations to the Legislature
from time to time.

By Senators Kinney and Pickett, increasing the salary of the Commissioner of permanent seat of government from $1800 to $2500 a year.

By Representative Maxey, providing that men and women shall have equal representation on political committees, resulting in doubling the size of those bodies so that a man and a woman represent each precinct.

By Representative Tedrick, requiring county courts to give 60 days' notice instead of 20, as at present, where ordering the construction of roads, against which remonstrance has been made.

By Representative Peck, authorizing political committees to place representatives in polling places to watch the voting, recording and counting of ballots.

Increase in Ballots. By Representatives Summers, O'Donnell and Smith, providing that 25 instead of 15 ballots shall be provided at each election for every 50 registered voters.

By Representative Job, enabling two or more school districts to form a joint third grade high school district for the teaching of the ninth and tenth grades of school.

By Representative Manning, compelling casualty and liability insurance companies to have their policies signed by resident agents.

By Representative Steiner, Cary and McClelland, designating method for voluntary dissolution of cooperative associations and companies.

By Representative Grant, increasing fees charged by State Department of finance for examining banks.

For Approval by Vote. Four joint and concurrent resolutions have been passed. These call for amendment of the Constitution and must be submitted to a vote, at a special election called by the Governor or at the regular election in November, 1924.

One of them seeks to repeal the article of the Constitution under which constitutional conventions may be called through initiative action and vest that power solely in the Legislature.

Another would increase the pay of members of the Legislature from $5 to $10 a day for the first 70 days of regular sessions and from $1 to $2 for the remainder. It also would prohibit the employment of relatives of legislators by either house.

A third would allow St. Louis to have a municipal legislative body of two houses if desired, its members elected at large or by wards as desired.

The fourth is the question of issuing $4,600,000 of additional soldier bonus bonds to pay those entitled to a bonus for whom there was not sufficient money.

Are You Sure You Know what Linoleum is?

YOU walk on linoleum in offices and homes. You see it in stores; you read about it as you are reading now—but do you know what it is?

Linoleum is a combination of cork, oil, and burlap. These substances blend together naturally into a material that makes a floor superior to any kind of floor that man has devised. Every one of these natural products—cork, linseed oil, and burlap—contributes qualities to linoleum that are desirable in a floor.

What the cork gives

different from wood, or stone, or metal?

A cork used in an ink bottle will blacken, but cut in and you will find the stain has not penetrated. Cork is nonabsorbent and moisture-proof. Cork is light. It will float in water. Cork is elastic. You can compress it and when released it will spring back to its original shape. Throw it on the floor and it will rebound.

Cork resists decay. It is a good heat-insulator, which makes it warm to the touch, summer or winter.

Cork is tough. It does not scratch or abrade easily, nor will it scratch or mar other surfaces.

These are the qualities that cork gives to linoleum.

What the linseed oil gives

Linoleum gets its name from linseed oil, which is pressed from flaxseed. Linseed oil is the same oil used in paint, which, when exposed to air, turns to a tough, solid film of skin. This film is smooth and rubbery and practically waterproof. When mixed with powdered cork these two substances unite perfectly. The tough oil skin, combined with the cork, becomes remarkably durable. The daily tread of thousands of feet makes little impression upon it. Also, it can be printed with patterns or designs that do not fade; or it can be colored throughout its entire thickness with colors that are as permanent as the linoleum itself. This is what is known as inlaid linoleum.

These are the qualities that linseed oil gives to linoleum.

What the burlap gives

This mixture of cork and oxidized linseed oil is not truly linoleum until it has been pressed or "keyed" into a fabric of tough, strong burlap. This burlap back provides a solid foundation and prevents tearing. The Armstrong trademark, a Circle "A," appears clearly on the back of all Armstrong's Linoleum. It is this sturdy, flexible, non-tearing quality that burlap gives to linoleum.

Linoleum has every quality that a modern floor should have. The linoleum floor is smooth, resilient, and comfortable. It is waterproof and the easiest of all floors to clean and keep clean. It can be kept looking new year after year by an occasional waxing and polishing. It is extremely quiet and, because cork is a non-conductor of heat, is not cold to the touch. Good linoleum wears for many years.

Many colors and patterns

Architects and interior decorators have been quick to seize the opportunity to suggest in the permanent linoleum floor a color value that is artistically a part of the room itself. Well-chosen floors of linoleum blend with the color schemes of walls, furniture, and draperies. Rugs are placed on these floors as on any permanent floor.

Armstrong's Linoleum is sold in good furniture and department stores in rich plain colors, beautiful two-tone Jaspé effects, parquetry inlaid, tile inlaid, carpet inlaid, and pleasing printed designs. Estimates furnished by linoleum contractors or house furnishers will surprise you at the low cost of replacing worn wooden floors or installing Armstrong's Linoleum floors in a new home. The Armstrong Cork Company maintains a Bureau of Interior Decoration for the purpose of giving advice on this subject, without charge.

Laying linoleum for permanency

In summer wood floors expand. In winter they dry out and contract, with a tendency to open up the cracks between the boards. Your linoleum floor, therefore, should be cemented (not tacked) over a lining of builder's deadening felt. The added service and wear this method gives are well worth the extra cost.

Write for free sample and booklet

Let us send you a sample of Armstrong's Linoleum and our 24-page booklet, "New Floors for Old." The booklet contains a score of colorplates of distinctive designs in Armstrong's Linoleum that you can see at good stores; also, information on laying linoleum over wood or concrete, and how to take care of your linoleum floors.

Take the sample in your hands. Note how the cork mix is keyed to the burlap back. Feel how warm, resilient, yet tough and durable good linoleum is.

Hornsby's Home Run in First Inning Scores 3 Runs for the Cardinals

Rickeymen Take Early Lead Over Washington Senators in Practice Game at Bradenton Training Camp.

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 26.—Bill Sherdel, the little southpaw, who has not permitted a run in exhibition games this spring, was Rickey's pitcher in today's clash with the Nationals. He was opposed by "Slim" McGrew. It was the Cardinals' first clash here.

It was the third clash with the Senators and the Rickeymen were anxious to make up for their two defeats. Bush's men won the first contest, 10 to 9, and then in the second game, played Saturday at Tampa, three Washington southpaws held the Cardinals to three hits and shut them out, 4 to 0.

Sherdel appeared in two previous games with the Boston Braves and was complete master at all times. Freigau took Stock's place at third base and hit in third place in the batting order. Eddie Dyer was again in right.

FIRST INNING. WASHINGTON—Rice tripled to left. Lavan threw out Evans. Rice scored. Goalin singled to left. Wade singled to right, sending Goalin to third. Conroy hit into a double play. Hornsby to Lavan to Bottomley.

SECOND INNING. WASHINGTON—Freigau along throw retired Harris. Blues popped to Lavan. Lavan out, Bottomley to Sherdel, who covered first. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING. Cardinals—Hornsby beat out a blow roller to Blues. Bottomley singled to right, sending Hornsby to third. Myers tapped to McGrew and Hornsby was run down. McGrew to Evans. Evans then tagged Bottomley between second and third for a "break" double play. Lavan struck out. NO RUNS.

Snapped as the Ben Millers Defeated the St. Matthews

The first Ben Miller goal, shot by Szepeanski from outside the penalty area. Goalkeeper Murphy allowed the ball to get through his hands and legs after Fullback Dunkman (third from left) had missed an easy kick.

The winning goal, shot by Allie Walsh who is not visible in the picture. O'Toole, Miller's outside right, in the goal mouth; Gerritsen, inside right.

Bad Break Robs Him of 300 Game in American Bowling Congress.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 26.—Smashed records were in view here tonight in the annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress with some of the country's crack teams ready to take the alleys.

Included in an even dozen cities to be represented are the Buffalo News five, which recently won the New York State championship; Frank Kato's Pirates, of Chicago; and the Romans and Budda fives of Syracuse, N. Y. Other cities which expect to be represented in the list of high teams are Lexington and Louisville, Ky.; Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Milwaukee, Watertown, Wis.; Cleveland and St. Paul.

Leadership in the five-man event changed again in Sunday's bowling. The Schwab Posters Prints of Buffalo rolled into second place with a count of 232. The Jubilee Waters of Buffalo gained fourth place, with 219, with Louisville and Green Bay teams tied for twelfth place. Chicago landed one team at eleventh and another at fourteenth place.

In his first appearance in an A. B. C. meet, Carl Baumgartner of Cincinnati, rolling 724, took the leadership in the individual bowling. Removal of the ten pin to fall in the eighth frame of his last game cost him a perfect score, leaving him with 277 for that game.

No change was made in the leadership in the doubles event.

Millers Tie Municipal Soccer Series by Beating Matthews, 2-1

Goalkeeper Murphy's Two Lapses Let Victors Slip Through the Winning Goals—Final Game Will Be Contested Either Next Wednesday or Sunday.

By Dent McKimming.

Two excusable lapses on the part of Goalkeeper Bill Murphy provided the opportunities which permitted the Ben Millers to provide two goals yesterday afternoon at Fairground Park. This was a sufficient number of tallies to defeat the St. Matthews in the second game of the Municipal Soccer League championship series. The score was 2 to 1. A third and deciding game will be played next Sunday.

Murphy, in goal for the Matthews, was a very superior player through nine-tenths of the game, but fate ordained that he should be largely responsible for the loss of the contest. Both Miller goals were scored in the second half, wiping out the one-goal advantage which the Matthews secured in the opening period.

After 10 minutes of play in the second half, the Millers forced a corner kick and outside Left Koon's made a good one. The ball was passed to Frank Szepeanski, at center half, and he tapped a slow, rolling shot from outside the penalty line. A futile effort was made by a fullback to clear the ball and when he missed, Goalie Murphy was left unprepared, and the ball slipped through his hands and legs.

Honors to Schemel.

About 10 minutes later the Millers scored the winning marker when Murphy failed to immediately rid himself of an easy shot which he gathered in. George Schemel, at center half, was the scorer. ## Ben Millers to Meet St. Matthews in Soccer Final Next Sunday

THE third and deciding game of the series between the Ben Millers and the St. Matthews for the championship of the Municipal Soccer League will be held at Fairground Park next Sunday afternoon. It was announced by Rodolfo H. Abeken, superintendent of recreation, this afternoon.

Negotiations for bringing the Sparta club, amateur champions of Chicago, to St. Louis are still in progress.

MANAGER BRADY READY TO MEET THE PATERSON CLUB IN FINAL GAME

Manager Tate Brady of the Scullins is preparing to meet the Paterson Club next Sunday in accordance with the announcement of the National Challenge Cup Committee. Brady received a telegram last night notifying him of the time and place of the final.

Ed Judge, representative of the Scullin Steel Co., sponsors and backers of the football club, has requested Brady to ask for a postponement. Harry Scullin, head of the steel corporation, is due to reach New York from a South American trip on April 2 and Judge wishes the final held on April 8 in order that Scullin may view the contest.

Brady today wired Johnny Rooney, who is with the St. Paul baseball club at Fort Smith, Ark., asking him to report in St. Louis before Thursday.

No postponement will be asked for, Brady said today. He feels that his club will be better prepared to play the final on next Sunday than a week later.

CHAMPION SCULLINS LOSE TO HOOVERS, 3 TO 0; VESPERS BEAT MILLERS

Using virtually the same lineup which will be employed in their national final game with the Paterson Club next Sunday, the champion Scullins were defeated by the Hoovers at High School Field yesterday, 3 goals to 0. The Vespers tightened their hold on the St. Louis Soccer League lead by defeating the Ben Millers, 3 to 0, in the other half of the double-header.

The only change that will be made in the lineup of the Scullins in the final is the insertion of Johnny Rooney at inside right in place of Jimmy Burke. The latter is not eligible for the cup game.

The Miller-Vesper game was a hammer-and-tongs affair. The only score came in the first half, when Becker shot after a corner kick from McCarthy. Schweppa, Ballam and Fitzgerald each scored one marker for the Hoovers against the Scullins. The Hoovers were playing unusually good football and the Scullins were far below their accustomed standard.

Browns Play Like Bushers and Swat Like the Hitless Wonders; Dallas Scores Five Tainted Runs

shocker and Pruett Do the Hurling, but Are Below Par—Feeble Support Gives the Ene my Needed "Breaks"—Browns Score 4 Runs on 7 Hits.

By J. Roy Stockton, Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

DALLAS, Tex., March 26.—Dallas baseball followers who saw the Browns perform yesterday afternoon might well wonder how in the world that ball club, even with George Sisler at first base, came within one game of winning the American League championship.

For in that game the Browns were at their worst. Everybody went to pieces together. Dallas scored five runs and every one was tainted. The Browns counted four runs.

Even Walter Gerber looked like a minor leaguer at short and Gerber usually is the most reliable man on the team. Sylvester Simon had trouble stopping ground balls and was helpless at the plate. McManus helped boot in a run, and so did Pat Collins, who played first base. Shocker was hit hard and helped donate a run by musing up a grounder. Hubert Pruett was wild and his wildness and an inaccurate throw to a base in the ninth were of much assistance to Dallas.

A person who, viewing the Browns for the first time, might conclude that the team had no chance at a pennant. But it was just one of those bad days that any ball club will have occasionally.

Browns Weak at Bat. In addition to going to pieces in the field, the Browns further offended by failing to hit with their usual power. Tobin's one hit in four chances was a home run over the right-field fence. Gerber, McManus, Simon and the pitchers did not get anything like a hit. Williams knocked out a double and Jacobson a double and a single. Severeid contributed two singles, each driving in a run. Pat Collins' single brought the total hits to seven.

The game demonstrated that the Browns need batting practice against right pitching. They saw some good curves yesterday. Schwartz, a southpaw, pitched five innings for Dallas and gave the Browns much trouble. "Buck" Conley, a star in the Texas League, finished the game and allowed the Browns only three safeties in four frames. In the eighth and ninth the right-hander turned the Browns back without a man reaching first.

Perhaps the misdeeds of the Browns might be interesting. Trouble started early. The first batter, Shocker, of course, has not started to pitch his best. He was hit hard and often, but he wisely is using these exhibition games to get into condition and is not worried about how the games turn out.

Shocker Belows Par. Shocker, of course, has not started to pitch his best. He was hit hard and often, but he wisely is using these exhibition games to get into condition and is not worried about how the games turn out.

Simon Not Hitting. Simon has fallen into a hitting slump. He struck out twice Saturday and twice yesterday. Perhaps he will be given a rest today and Homer Ezzell may get a chance to cover third in the final game with Dallas. Thus far Ezzell has not displayed throwing ability necessary to put a man in major league class. But he has a reputation in the Texas League as a fine thrower. Perhaps when his arm recovers from its spring stiffness he will make a strong bid for that third base job. It certainly appears to be an open gate.

Ellerbe's chief weakness, aside from the injured knee which kept him out last year, is his poor throwing. The "governor" takes too much time to draw back his arm. What Pohl is looking for is a man who can get them to first in a hurry. Many a potential hit can be turned into a putout by a third sacker able to burn them over the diamond after knocking down a hot one.

Some of the young pitchers probably will get a chance to work this afternoon in the final game with Dallas. Jim Elliott, Hollis Thurston and Charlie Root are due to perform. After the game today the Browns move to Wichita Falls for three games.

PETER THE GREAT, FAMED RACE HORSE, IS DEAD

By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 26.—Peter the Great, famous racing sire of the stable of Stoughton A. Fletcher, died here today following a stroke of paralysis. One of the greatest money earners on the track during his racing career, the famous pacer, who held a mark of 2:07 1/2, was retired several years ago by Mr. Fletcher. Peter the Great sired 149 standard track performers which is said to be more than twice the number sired by any other racing stallion.

He was 21 years old and was purchased by Mr. Fletcher in 1916 for $50,000.

Rain Threatens Giants.

By the Associated Press. SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 26.—Rain threatened here this morning as the New York Giants and Chicago White Sox, each with two games to their credit, started in automobiles for the Sox camp at Seguin, where an exhibition is scheduled this afternoon. Both teams break camp Friday night.

Gardini's Wife Puts Up $10,000 to Induce Lewis to Meet Husband

CHICAGO, March 26. MRS. RENATO GARDINI, daughter of a wealthy Boston banker and wife of the Boston wrestler, claims the distinction of being the only woman promoter in the sport. When Ed (Strangler) Lewis, world champion heavyweight, demanded a guarantee of $10,000, win, lose or draw, before he would consent to meet Gardini, Mrs. Gardini wired her father for the money and obtained it. Lewis and Gardini will meet here April 5.

Johnny Kilbane's Next Fight Will Be With Muldoon

NEW YORK, March 26.—Johnny Kilbane is coming on to New York to plead his case with William Muldoon, head of the Boxing Board in this state. Kilbane says he is champion. Most of the world does. He is not champion in this state because of his refusal to box Johnny Dundee in defense of his title after being ordered to do so by the commission.

The New York commission, wishing to smoke Kilbane out into the open, though he has never been a licensed boxer in this state, backed up Johnny Dundee who is the challenger. Kilbane ignored the edict and thereupon was shorn of his crown, so far as this state is concerned.

It is a different story. Kilbane wants to fight here for the simple reason that Eugene Ciriqli, the European champion in the same division, is here to fight him for the world's title. Tom O'Rourke, matchmaker for the Republic A. C., secured the signatures of both men and wants to put the bout on at the Polo Grounds.

Villa Won Hard Fight. From all reports that 12-round battle between Pancho Villa, the fiery little Filipino, and Willie Darcy, New York's latest sensation among the flyweight boxers, at Watertown, Conn., Saturday night certainly was a thriller. True enough, Villa gained the decision, which was expected; but Darcy handed the wisecracker a jolt by the great fight he waged against the former American champion of his class.

Villa landed a corker in the first round that dropped Darcy for an instant, but the little New Yorker was up at once and carried the contest right to his adversary. It was a give-and-take affair from that time on.

Curtis Fight Tonight. Johnny Curtis, considered in the State of New Jersey, at least, the best bantam in all the world, will come back to the fold tonight when he meets Young Montreal in the Fourth Regiment Armory, Jersey City.

Curtis has not fought since the unfortunate ending in his bout with Carl Tremaine in Madison Square Garden. He has been to the hospital twice since then and it is only now that he is setting out on the quest for the golden crown.

Wray's Column

On Trail of Ed Lewis. NOW it's the New York State Athletic Commission that has curtailed the kale-gathering program of Wrestling Champion Ed Lewis. His match with Cliff Binkley was canceled and Siegfried, a venerable veteran of ability, substituted for Binkley.

It appears that the Strangler had been chomping a good thing too hard, so that he has faced Binkley too often too recently, the said Binkley faring none too well.

It is the standard charge against Lewis that he is unwilling to meet the tough ones, but prefers to dally among the Totalitarian paths of the soft snap.

It's a natural desire, Eduardo, but difficult to put across for long, anywhere, even in St. Louis, where the cash customers are kind.

Lewis has been playing ring-around-a-rosy with a number of wrestlers who have no right to linger more than 15 minutes with him.

The fact that practically no wrestling records are officially kept prevents a real perspective of the kale-gathering activities of the title-holder.

Lewis' arguments that they pay too little for big mat bouts, as compared with boxing purses, is only partly justifiable. Lewis is out of luck, if he happens to have chosen a line of endeavor not so well liked as boxing.

Is It Pot vs. Kettle? EVEN the worm will turn. Stung by the nagging of Piestina and his heckling friends, Lewis and the alleged "mat trust" have launched a heavy counter attack against Piestina and his associates.

Broadside consisting of newspaper criticisms, comment by former associates of Piestina and his manager, and even the records of the Leavitts are cited to prove that the management of Piestina is not coming to court with clean hands.

It must be said that against Coffey Sandow and Co. there is no worse charge than letting inferior wrestlers stick around for a while with the champion. The "trust" itself is just a booking agency for the mat talent.

On the other hand, there are grave charges against those connected with Piestina, himself just a big stalwart sluggard of second class, if his record means anything.

The public is not interested in the debate but would like to witness a few honest-to-goodness mat struggles, especially one for the championship.

HAVANA RACE SEASON BROUGHT TO A CLOSE

By the Associated Press. HAVANA, March 26.—The horse-racing season at Oriental Park ended yesterday with the running of the Oriferial Park Handicap, at two and one-sixteenth miles. The race was won by J. Alfred Clark, a 6-year-old bay gelding, owned by J. J. Wolf. The time was 2:39 3/4, which is said to be a new record for North and South American tracks.

In the St. Louis League, yesterday, The Scullins were outplayed. What can they hope to do against the strong Paterson aggregation, winners of the Eastern final and the Scullins' title rivals?

The game will be played on the enemy grounds, under hostile eyes. The Scullins ordinarily are great finishers. Almost every game won by them this year has been an uphill victory. Yet the club is undoubtedly weaker or else, of late, has been easing up in its St. Louis League games to save itself for the cup struggles.

Tate Brady has been compelled to hold back his men for fear of suffering further losses from his lineup. The team, however, appears about 25 per cent weaker than the one which beat the Todds here last year.

REBUKE, JOCKEY POOL IN THE SADDLE, NOSES OUT ADONIS AT TIA JUANA

By the Associated Press. SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 26.—Rebuke, owned by J. K. L. Ross, Canadian sportsman, won the Cofroth handicap at Tia Juana yesterday. Adonis, owned by William Necehouse, Omaha, was second and Supercargo of the J. M. Crane stables, Prince Til Til, purchased by the Meadowbrook stable for the race, finished fourth, a nose behind the third horse.

Rebuke, 4-year-old colt, by Dick Bell-The Scold, was widely regarded by form players, but was coupled in the mutual betting with Peysance and Muttlink, the other three starters, and both regarded as having excellent chances. As a result, backers of the winner received only a short price, the Ross entry being the pronounced favorite in a field of 18 horses.

Had the track been muddy, Rebuke would have been the popular choice on his merit. The black colt won the "Cuba" Derby at Havana last winter in the mud and is regarded as a mud runner. He ran an excellent race under the guidance of Jockey W. Pool coming from behind to outpace his competitors in the stretch.

SHARPE IS RIGHT. HARRY SHARPE has come out with an ultimatum warning all boxers that when he is in the ring they will have to box and not clinch except under justifiable conditions.

This attitude should be taken by all referees, if the game is to be saved. Defense today, in the eyes of most boxers, seems to consist solely in smothering the other man's arms by clinging to him. That was not the contemplation of real boxing which, in the old days taught men to block, guard, slip, side-step, away the body from side hips, duck and otherwise evade the enemy without touching him save with a counter.

Rarely are such tactics seen today. Jimmy Wilde is one of the few fighters seen in this city who refused to touch an opponent with any other intent than to hit him. Let's get back to boxing, not alley scrapping.

Speed Up, Tate. T H F St. Louis Scullins, national soccer champions, with practically the lineup that will face Paterson for the title, next Sunday, were beaten, 3-0, by a team

PETER THE GREAT, FAMED RACE HORSE, IS DEAD

By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 26.—Peter the Great, famous racing sire of the stable of Stoughton A. Fletcher, died here today following a stroke of paralysis. One of the greatest money earners on the track during his racing career, the famous pacer, who held a mark of 2:07 1/2, was retired several years ago by Mr. Fletcher. Peter the Great sired 149 standard track performers which is said to be more than twice the number sired by any other racing stallion.

He was 21 years old and was purchased by Mr. Fletcher in 1916 for $50,000.

THE GIRL IN THE CORNER APARTMENT

By MAY CHRISTIE

Copyright, 1922, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

LXVI.—A TREAT IN STORE.

THE CHARACTERS.

CYNTHIA BRANT, country girl, living in a New York apartment she has inherited from an old lady she once befriended.
RUBY ALLISON, her gay and frivolous friend.
ALEC KERR, Ruby's fiance.
QUENTIN GRAY, an artist friend of Ruby's.
AUNT ELLEN, who keeps house for Cynthia.
MURRAY STEWART, for whom Cynthia is working as a stenographer.
MRS. WAKELAND, friend and rich client of Stewart's, who takes a fancy to Cynthia.
VIOLET KERROLD, friend of Murray's.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT.

VIOLET had set light to a train of thought that led to painful jealousy, although Murray Stewart was heartily ashamed of such a weakness.

Was Cynthia fond of masculine attention? (Every normal woman is, but the infatuated man was in a mood to play counsel for the prosecution.)

Was she a flirt?

Ought he to suppress his feelings for her, before they led to further pain?

He reached his room, had a warm bath, and went to bed.

But New York was awake now, and sleeping wasn't easy.

Besides, his own thoughts were not soothing. They were like tormenting little demons, whirling round and round inside his head.

What a cad he was to harbor queer suspicions, but was it possible that his money and position had attracted the penniless Cynthia, so that his own attraction was as nothing beside the fact that he was well endowed with this world's goods?

There were lots of girls like that, of course. Was Cynthia one of them?

Sometimes it had struck him that for a simple country maid, she was rather clever in her ways of handling men.

For instance, if she had been "gauche" and awkward, would Count Verol have raved over her the way he'd done?

Would that infernal little snob of a Cyril have tried to stick to her side like glue, this evening, with admiring eyes that protruded like a startled fish each time the girl was near him?

And would these smart men have fluttered round her in battalions as they'd done tonight—today—in some way she hadn't "led them on," coquettishly?

He tossed from side to side of his bed, worried to death by surmises that, after all, and in a more normal mood, he would have looked upon as merely trifling.

At 8 o'clock his telephone rang sharply, and with a muttered imprecation, he sprang up and stillied its noise by jerking the receiver off its hook.

What idiotic fool wanted to converse with him at this unearthly hour?

The inconsiderate person proved to be Margaret Wakeland, and with an odd request to make!

A letter had arrived that demanded that she go to Chicago by a morning train, and might she please—as a great personal favor—take little Cynthia Brant with her?

There were reasons why she didn't want to take Hortense, her personal maid, and a glimpse of another city would be such a treat to Murray's untraveled young secretary.

Besides, there would be heaps of business letters to be written in Chicago. And strange stenographers were too hopeless, really! She wouldn't have time to write the documents herself.

This was Saturday, and Monday was a holiday, in any case. If Murray would only be an angel, and excuse Cynthia for Tuesday, she—Margaret Wakeland—would swear solemnly that the girl should be at her accustomed desk on Thursday morning.

"You're ruled by impulse, I'm afraid," said Murray into the instrument, with a wry little smile. "Of course, if you insist on kidnapping my secretary, I can't very well prevent it, can I? But what shall I do, on Tuesday at the office? Who is to take Miss Brant's place? And what will she herself say to the arrangement?"

"Oh, I've already communicated with her, and she's positively delighted!" cried Margaret Wakeland at the other end of the wire.

Her statement was a distinct exaggeration of the facts, but Margaret Wakeland was impressive.

"And I've fixed up a substitute as well," she went on, gaily. "VI Jerrold says she can easily give you the whole day on Tuesday, and Wednesday, also, if you like!"

"Does she, indeed? Well, I don't seem to have much to say in the matter!" He was feeling very irritable, through lack of sleep and the torments of jealousy, and he didn't try to make his manner gracious. "But settle it as you will. Only I think that Miss Brant might have telephoned me before the thing was fixed!"

He rang off abruptly.

But Margaret Wakeland was too intent on her own plans to spend any time worrying over Murray Stewart's attitude in the matter.

He was an old, tried friend of hers, and all men were testy at times, and of course, he was cross at being roused from slumber.

Her business was pressing, but there would be time to show the little country girl around the town, and that would be amusing and a bit of real philanthropy, which the good-hearted woman loved to execute.

He rang off abruptly.

TYPES OF MEN EVERY GIRL MEETS

THE WORKER

By Betty Vincent.

EVERY girl knows "The Worker."

He is the young man who comes to call and tells you all about himself. How he had to go to work at 16 or 17, help educate a score of little brothers and sisters and support his widowed mother. Then he will attempt to tell you all the different positions he held and eventually dwell about his present duties, going into minute detail.

For one evening the average girl is mightily interested in this young man. His life reads like a bit of history or an interesting page from fiction, but when this same young man has called for 53 evenings or perhaps twice a week for one whole year, this same old story begins to drag.

And yet, this young man is a very capable person and, because he has done all this, and more, the girl he calls upon should be a trifle lenient and try to interest him in other things beside his work before she puts him down as a "bore" or an "egotist."

After all, he has been through a number of struggles and hard climbs, and because he has come out victorious it is only a just reward that he be allowed to tell his girl or escort all those things which have meant so much to him. It is the duty then of this girl not only to listen to him, but to gradually lead his mind along other channels.

There are dancing, hiking, music, skating, swimming, in fact, all life for him to enjoy. The young man may not have had time or money to go in for these things, but now it is the duty of his sweetheart to initiate him.

A number of girls write that the worker frequently breaks his engagements and telephones at the last moment that his work will make it impossible for him to be with them. But here again, the thinking girl must learn to make allowance. Her own heart ought to tell her that almost any young man would rather be with his sweetheart than in some overlighted, overheated office or running about to meet business acquaintances.

This young man who is not able to keep his dates owing to business relations, then, should be sympathized with rather than ridiculed. It is up to the girl who cares about him to understand his predicament rather than to pout and tell him how he spoiled her whole evening.

The worker is usually a very conscientious, clean-minded young man. He has given his whole life and undivided attention to his work, and although he may seem a bit concentrated on that line, the tactful girl can make him interested in the very things which interest her.

In many ways this young man makes an ideal companion, and one of his great outstanding good points is that he usually makes a very substantial living. The man who has devoted himself to his work and is happy in his own field makes a very eligible and trustworthy husband. Because he is so bound up in his work he naturally wishes to converse about it, but, after all, a man's work is frequently as interesting a subject as ball games, all sorts of sports, news, poker games, horse shows, latest dancing steps, other girls and the subjects so many escorts fill their girls' ears with.

Let the worker work—and talk. Try to become interested in that work and also to get him interested in the things you like.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Jumper the Hare Is Worried

By Thornton W. Burgess

A sunny temper in an hour
Through worry may have turned quite sour.

—Peter Rabbit.

SWEET MISTRESS SPRING had arrived. There was no doubt about it. Peter Rabbit would have known it by his feelings if there had been no other signs. But there were other signs, plenty of them. Gentle Sister South Wind had swept away every trace of snow on the Green Meadow. She had tried to do the same thing in the Green Forest, but there were places where she couldn't do it alone, and where the Jolly Little Sunbeams came to her aid.

There in dark sheltered places small patches of snow still remained. Winsome Bluebird had arrived. So had Little Friend the Song Sparrow and Dear Mr. the Phoebe. Roughleg the Hawk had gone north. Farmer Brown and his boy were making maple sugar, for the sap was running freely in the maple trees. The little brown and green hoods of the Skunk Cabbages, which sheltering many tiny flowers, were all along the Laughing Brook. Up on the hill in the Green Forest Hepaticas smiled at all who passed. Yes, indeed, there were many, many signs that Sweet Mistress Spring had arrived.

Peter had run over to the Green Forest. His feet fairly itched with desire to roam about. It was the season when he just couldn't sit still in one place long at a time. He had had that feeling ever since he kept him wandering here, there everywhere. You see he just had to know all that was going on.

"Hello, Cousin Peter," said a voice as Peter was hopping lightly up the Lone Little Path.

"Hello, yourself," replied Peter, stopping short, for he had recognized that voice at once. It was the voice of his big cousin, Jumper the Hare. At first Peter didn't see Jumper, although he stared all about. It was rather dark just there, and this was one of the places where under the hemlocks patches of snow still lingered.

"Where are you hiding, Cousin Jumper?" demanded Peter after vainly looking all about.

"I'm not hiding. Why do you think I am?" said Jumper.

Then what Peter had taken for a little patch of snow under the hemlock branch slowly hopped out toward him. "Oh!" said Peter. "That sir, is certainly fooled me. Yes, I have passed half a dozen little patches of snow since I started down the Lone Little Path, and I took you for an—"

HEROINES of HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

Why Elizabeth of Hungary Is Tenderly Remembered Today.

IN 1267 a little daughter was born to Andrew II of Hungary and his wife, Gertrude. She was named Elizabeth.

The Queen-mother did not have the pleasure of seeing her little girl grow up and the joy of shaping her life, because when the little Princess Elizabeth was only 4 years old she was betrothed to Louis IV, landgrave of Thuringia.

Because of the betrothal of this child, who was not much more than a baby, she was taken to Warburg to be educated under the supervision of her future mother-in-law.

The Thuringian court at this time was a very worldly and pleasure-loving place. Although a young and impressionable child, this little girl showed a marked aversion to all the frivolities which she saw. In contrast, she evinced a strong interest in charities and religion. Even the most innocent pleasures did not seem to attract her.

When she was 14 years old, Elizabeth was married to Louis. She acquired a strong influence over her youthful husband, and after much difficulty finally won his entire approval and support in her charitable works.

A pretty legend has come down to us of the manner in which Elizabeth converted Louis to her point of view. It is said that at times Louis became very impatient with Elizabeth on account of what he called her excessive charities and her endless giving of alms. He had reproved her on several occasions.

One day, while Louis was returning from hunting, he saw his young wife carrying a heavy bundle filled with bread.

He stopped his horse and brusquely ordered Elizabeth to open the package.

When she was married to Louis, she acquired a strong influence over her youthful husband, and after much difficulty finally won his entire approval and support in her charitable works.

A pretty legend has come down to us of the manner in which Elizabeth converted Louis to her point of view. It is said that at times Louis became very impatient with Elizabeth on account of what he called her excessive charities and her endless giving of alms. He had reproved her on several occasions.

One day, while Louis was returning from hunting, he saw his young wife carrying a heavy bundle filled with bread.

What Prize-Baby Judges Say Are Baby's Chief Needs

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator From New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

In connection with a health exhibition in New York there was a baby contest. This was designed to discover the most perfect infant attending the baby health stations of the New York City Department of Health.

Thousands of babies were entered in the race, and there was great interest, even excitement, over the contest. The number of contestants for first place narrowed down to five, and from these five was selected the prize winner.

I think it would be easier, and safer, perhaps, to tame a herd of wild ponies than to be a judge in a baby contest. Today I saw in a newspaper a crude quatrain which recites the troubles of such judges: They had a baby show.

The babies ran neck and neck: The winning baby's a perfect kid.

But the judge is a perfect wreck. Babies are such winsome creatures, each possessing superior qualities of body and temper, that it is extremely hard to define and determine the winning points.

Three chief factors were given greatest consideration in awarding the prize: Feeding. Home care. Physical condition.

Let us consider these somewhat in detail, first as to feeding. The highest score was given the breast-fed baby.

There can be no doubt that the highest good of the infant is served by this attention on the part of the mother. Of course, this is not possible in every instance. Her health or condition may not be such as to permit this. But whenever possible the mother should give her baby the blessing of this start toward health and happiness.

In case the mother cannot care for her child—in any event after it is weaned—the purest and best cow's milk, properly prepared, must be administered. The feeding must be at regular intervals, and in amounts suited to the age and size of the child.

In determining the winner great attention was given the home care of the infant. Personal cleanliness, ventilation of the living quarters, the amount of sleep and out-of-door air given the child, and the general appearance of the home, were all factors of importance in deciding the contest.

Of course, the result of proper feeding and home care are shown by the physical condition of the child. The third and most important factor is this:

The height and weight, the development of the body—particularly the chest and abdomen—the number and condition of the teeth, the absence of adenoids and enlarged tonsils or other glands, the proper closing of the "soft spot" on top of the head, and the absence of any sign of disease—all these were studied and recorded.

Finally, the judges decided that a lovely little boy, Charles O'Donnell Jr., aged 11 months, was the most perfect baby in all the city of New York.

BREAD CAKE

CREAM together one cup of sugar, one cup of shortening; add one egg, beaten light; one nutmeg, grated; one-half teaspoon cinnamon; one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon soda, dissolved in milk (one tablespoon); mix with two cups of raised bread dough; add one cup of raisins, sliced citron. Let rise and bake about one hour in moderate oven. This will fill an ordinary bread tin. It can be frosted if desired.

Fashion News Notes

PARIS—Wings of chiffon with lead and diamond embroidery are seen on many of the new gowns today. This is a revival of an old fashion, but one which always made for grace. With the sleeveless gowns it is especially attractive.

NEW YORK—Two or three very big and wide open flowers are the whole decorations on certain of the newest large black straw hats. The flowers are both satin and velvet, in exquisite shades of red or yellow or some bright color, and each in itself is a work of art.

LONDON—The very latest twist of the spring suit modes today is the gown with short coat to match. Many of the costumes are only half tailored, giving them that "lounge" effect so much desired at the moment. Evening gowns also occasionally have capes of the same material and shade.

LONDON—There is a wogue today

of fruit and flowers combined as decorations. The effect is very beautiful. Real fruit and flowers are used to adorn luncheon tables, but artificial fruit and flowers are seen on hats, girdles and boudoir curtains.

NEW YORK—Ribbon trimmings seem to have lost none of their popularity today. Since roses and carnations are still in high favor. One of the new ribbons is an excellent imitation of crepe and makes a delightful as well as novel bit of decoration for the springtime blouse or frock.

NEW YORK—Three short fur coats which proved to be so popular last fall and through the winter have by no means vanished now that spring has arrived. By the calendar if not by the weather man. It is probable that short fur coats will be worn as long as cool winds permit.

Money, T and Sense

By WED BLACK

HE'S gone back to his old job, with an old mug-colored blanket for the rich Indian. He wasn't even the chief—was rich—amazingly rich. "Old Jackson Barnett," the him down in Oklahoma—his Indian name, but I wouldn't hear of calling him Feather, or New Moon, or anything like that. It was his black-eyed mother who rode on her back in a jerry case—when she went out to blueberries. Mrs. Jackson Barnett is going and she's clever, and she know or care a thing in the about wigwags or tepees, or ever you call them. She couldn't "jerk" a horse to save her life, and she did not know about dances and the dance of peace from the top shelf to the bottom. What did Money Mean? How did old Jackson Barnett? By a very simple plan. He owned some land, just waste stubble land that nobody use, and all at once somebody oil on the land and old Jackson for three-quarters of a million. Mrs. Jackson went traveling motor cars and phonographs and neckties and collars, and he had no possible use for any of these things—except the phonograph. It is whispered that he never quite liked to stay alone in the room with the phonograph, especially when the moon was at the full—he said it was a Big Medicine.

Others Are Less Courageous.

The motor car he didn't mind so much, but he liked a good, husky bronc a thousand times better, and so—

The other day he just got rid of the whole nuisance of civilization. He gave his wife $55,000 in cash, assured himself a life income—sent his wife and daughter to Los Angeles to live in luxury, bought a new cayuse, a couple of gay blankets, and went home and lit the fire in the fireplace in his living room. Lit his pipe, wrapped himself in his blankets and lay down to dream of the time when he snared the wolf with his own snare made by his slender, brown, boyish hands and all the tribe said it was good and called him a Big Injun.

What a sensible old fellow he is—he wants what he wants when he wants it, and he doesn't care what other people want, and he isn't even going to pretend about it!

I saw a man at the theater the other night—an elderly man with a tired face and heavy eyes full of a puzzled anxiety—he sat with his wife and daughter in a box and tried his best to make out what the actors were having such a time over.

I don't think he cares for problem money and chairs and bookcases—

ODD and INTERESTING FACTS

Greenwich is about five miles southeast of London, England, and is the seat of the Royal Observatory, from which the correct or authoritative time is given out. The meridian of Washington is used in this country, but at a convention held in Washington in 1884 it was decided that the meridian of Greenwich should be taken as the basis for the world and that the astronomical day should begin at noon. If a man could fly around the earth in 24 hours, keeping always directly under the sun it would be continuously plays—poor fellow.

Why doesn't he have the courage of the old Oklahoma Indian and take off his shoes and put his feet up on a kitchen chair and light his old clay pipe—and let the rest of the world roll by?

What would you give to be as simple and as straightforward and as courageous as Eagle Feather of Oklahoma?

YOU may talk about a horse that can fly around the course. In Derby and in shorty distance racing. But when it comes to speed, I know a certain steed. That's a summer when it came to steeple chasing. It was thirteen years of age. And 'e made the 'eather rug. When 'e proved to be the champion timber topper. Sergeant Murphy was his name. 'E was old but 'e was game. And 'e very seldom ever came a cropper.

IT was Murphy, Murphy, Murphy. There may be younger 'orses on the turf. And although the public played 'em. By the living 'eave that made 'em. You're a better 'orse than they are Sergeant Murphy.

SIGNIFICANT.

After all it was only natural that Sergeant Murphy should cop.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL DAUGHERTY'S SON NAMED AS FRIEND OF SLAIN MODEL

Draper M. Daugherty Being Sought for Questioning as to Reports That He Might Have Knowledge as to Blackmail Plot Involving Dorothy Keenan.

LAST OF MITCHELL'S GIFTS TO GIRL MISSING

Wealthy Provider Said to Have Presented Young Woman With $1000 Bond and Jewelry on Occasion of Final Visit.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 27.—Assistant District Attorney Pecora and Police Inspector Coughlin today joined in an active search for Draper M. Daugherty, only son of the Attorney-General of the United States, to question him concerning reports that he was a friend of Dorothy Keenan, murdered model, and that he might know of a blackmailing ring using her as a decoy.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 27.—To the list of missing jewelry, furs and money of Dorothy Keenan, who was chloroformed in her apartment at 144 West Fifty-seventh street, twenty days ago, was added yesterday a $1000 Liberty bond and a fancy jade bracelet, gifts from J. Keenan-Mitchell of Philadelphia, her wealthy provider. He gave these to her on the last night on Broadway which she spent with him. These were in addition to the $700 he put in her handbag.

This added generosity on his part was related by Acting District Attorney Pecora, who had obtained the admission from Mitchell. Pecora mentioned the gifts in enumerating the questions the authorities were endeavoring to find answers to, and any one of which they had decided would point to the guilty party.

Unanswered Questions.

They were: Who purchased the chloroform? Whose pocket comb lay in the girl's bed? Who has the letter Mitchell wrote to her telling her he was leaving his family in Palm Beach to see her? Who has her jewelry and furs?

And in telling of the Liberty bond, particularly, Pecora said the girl further convinced him that Mitchell had no inkling of any blackmail plot or trouble of any kind that Miss Keenan might have been in.

Mitchell, in telling of his relations with the girl, also said he recalled that she pressed him to remain with her in her apartment, instead of leaving about 2 o'clock in the morning, as he did, and it was the first time she had urged him not to go. The conclusion of Pecora was that if she was not a party to some scheme, she anticipated some happening and dreaded being left alone. No one has been found. It was admitted, who read that letter of Mitchell to the girl or who knew any part of it. Mrs. Biddle Bradford, the negro maid, merely told of Miss Keenan receiving a letter from "Mr. Marshall," as Mitchell was known, and telling her he was coming North to see her. Mrs. Bradford saw the letter in Miss Keenan's handbag, but did not read it. But Pecora said he had reason to believe another person actually saw the letter.

Contents Known or Suspected.

"The person either knew the contents, or suspected its contents," he said.

He would not say to whom he referred. Mitchell told him what he wrote, but he did not think it wise to reveal for the present what the text was.

If you're going by the saying that 'There's no fool like an old fool' (it's said), I'm not saying old Mitchell is old, it was a natural letter," Pecora said.

"Was it a letter he would regret?" Pecora was asked.

"In the light of subsequent events he naturally would regret it," was the reply.

Asked if more than one person
